CHOICE OF GM EXAMINER NOT LIKED BY UAW

UNION WILLING TO TAKE LESS THAN 30 PER CENT

Detroit, Jan. 16. (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers today protested to the National Labor Relations Board against appointment of Board Member Gerard D. Reilly as trial examiner in the charges brought by the UAW against General Motors corporation.

Reilly was named by the NLRB to preside at a Jan. 28 hearing here on the UAW allegations that GM has refused to bargain in good faith.

The union's stand, announced by President P. J. Thomas after a meeting of its executive board today, included a charge that "Reilly since his appointment to the board (NLRB) has repeatedly deviated from the basic policies and principles underlying the National Labor Relations Act."

Compromise Favorable
Indicating his union willingness to accept less than the 30 per cent wage rate increase originally demanded in the battle with the car industry, Thomas said:

"The recommendations of the various fact-finding boards in wage disputes seem to follow a pattern of wage increases at around 17 1/2 to 18 per cent. The CIO unions including our own have indicated a willingness to accept this figure as a compromise that civilian production may proceed. But the big money as this is written has not yet decided whether to accept or decline all-out war that would involve the entire nation."

Meanwhile on another front in the 30 per cent wage increase battle the union has informed the Ford Motor Co. it will accept 19 1/2 cents an hour or slightly more than 16 per cent. The fact-finders' recommendation in the GM dispute amounted to 19 1/2 cents an hour. Ford last week offered an increase of 17 1/2 cents, or about 14 1/2 per cent.

Hourly Rate High
Ford said its present national hourly wage rate is $1.21, which is described as nine cents above that of its largest competitor.

General Motors, in a statement issued late today by President C. E. Wilson, declared, "General Motors has always paid high wages, at least equal to the wages paid for similar work in the same area. Specifically the average straight time rate for all General Motors factory workers in the car, truck and body plants in the Detroit (Continued on Page Two)

Ex-Buddhist Priest Claims To Be Real Emperor Of Japan

Baltimore, Jan. 16. (AP)—A former Buddhist priest who claims that he, and not Hirohito is really the emperor of Japan has asked Gen. Douglas MacArthur to place him on the imperial throne, Robert B. Cochrane, Tokyo correspondent of the Baltimore Sun wrote today.

The claim of Hiromichi Kumazawa—who would become the Emperor Hiromichisa—was accompanied by documents purporting to prove that Hirohito's ancestors displaced those of the former priest 554 years ago.

"Many educated Japanese are aware of the existence of an alternate line of royalty," Cochrane writes, "but in recent years the police have hounded the pretender and have prevented his story from reaching the Japanese press."

The 56-year-old pretender lives in a city in southern Japan and his address is kept secret until arrangements for his safety have been made by general headquarters.

His name has been handed down for 14 generations, and is one of the legacies which Kumazawa claims prove that he is a genuine lineal descendant of the late Emperor Dodaigo, the great Tenna of the early fourteenth century.

"Godaigo was driven from the throne," so says the pretender, by a disaffected soldier named Ashikaga Tokuji, who placed a prince of the blood in the ruling seat and thus began the twin dynasties which have existed ever since."

Hirohito was said to be a descendant of the dynasty established by Tokuji.

VETERANS LOSE PAY IN STRIKES

Unemployment Refits Not Allowed By GI Bill Of Rights

Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—General Omar N. Bradley, veterans administrator, ruled today that veterans are not entitled to unemployment compensation under the GI Bill of Rights when deprived of work by a strike.

Omar B. Ketchum, national legislative representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced immediately that his organization will attempt to have the bill amended so that veterans who do not vote for strikes may draw compensation. He estimated about 13,000 veterans are involved in the General Motors strike alone.

Bradley upheld a decision of the Michigan Unemployment Commission in the case of John Cody, a veteran employed by the AC spark plug plant at Flint, Mich., subsidiary of General Motors. A strike occurred Oct. 15, 1945, and Cody was thrown out of work.

The GI bill provides $20 a week unemployment compensation for veterans for a maximum of 52 weeks. It says, however, that it shall not be paid if a veteran is out of work because of a strike in which he participates or in which he is "directly interested."

Cody said he was not a union member and had nothing to do with the strike.

Bradley ruled that Cody was "directly interested" because if the strikers won a wage increase it would interest him. He also held that the union acted as bargaining agent for all employees, including Cody.

Ketchum said this interpretation could be applied to almost all veterans out of work because of strikes regardless of whether they took any part or interest in the strike.

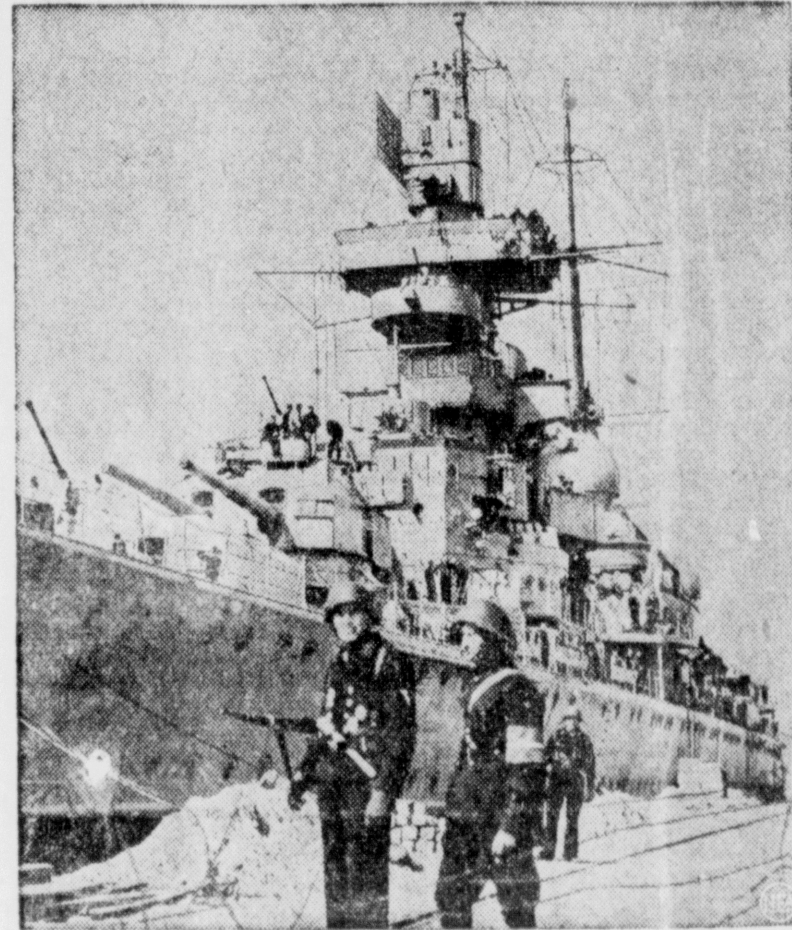

Sailor Denied Leave To See Doomed Dog

Bremerton, Wash., Jan. 16. (AP)—Navy authorities today turned down a request by Signalman 2/c Harry E. Bennett, 22, of Detroit, for emergency leave to go East to visit his dying 21-year old pet Boston terrier "Honey Girl."

Bennett, due for an overseas assignment shortly, asked permission to return home. A 13th naval district spokesman said it was sometimes necessary to deny leave to men who wish to visit sick relatives and that in Bennett's case it was not believed a leave was warranted.

A Detroit veterinarian has given the dog only two weeks to live.

Bennett, son of Mrs. Joseph Rockwood, Detroit, was scheduled to leave some time ago for duty in Tokyo, but broke his right hand practicing on a punching bag. The cast will be taken off tomorrow.

Draft May Die May 15; Call Of 4-Fs And Single Men Up To 45 Proposed

Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) proposed today that single men up to 45 and "lots" of 4-Fs be drafted to provide army replacements overseas. The War Department announced, meanwhile, that General Dwight D. Eisenhower will address the nation by radio on the demobilization problem. The chief of staff will make a 15-minute broadcast at 9 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Friday over CBS and possibly other networks.

KIMMEL TELLS OF JAP SPYING

Admiral Says Secretary Of War Blocked Jail Terms For Snoopers

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel said today that Secretary of War Stimson blocked a pre-Pearl Harbor proposal to jail Japanese consular officials spying on naval installations in Hawaii.

Kimmel, who was Pacific fleet commander at the time, said the recommendation for arrests originated with Adm. C. C. Bloch, then commandant of the 14th (Hawaiian) naval district, in the summer of 1941. But the army opposed and nothing was done, Kimmel related, adding:

"I have since learned that the secretary of war was the man who decided nothing should be done. I don't know what his reasons were."

Under questioning by Seth Richardson, committee counsel, Kimmel had testified that he knew, of course, prior to the December 7, 1941, attack that Japanese agents could easily keep track of what fleet units were in Pearl Harbor since a view of the whole harbor could be obtained from nearby mountains.

Kimmel reiterated that if he had been fully informed "there never would have been a Pearl Harbor" because he would have made other dispositions of his forces. He had told the committee previously that if he had known what Washington knew he would have tried to ambush the Japanese raiding force.

Coal Dust Blamed In Mine Explosion Which Killed 15 Men

Welch, W. Va., Jan. 16. (AP)—Although the source of ignition is still undetermined, a preliminary report on the Hayco mine disaster said tonight the explosion which killed 15 men "was propagated entirely by coal dust."

The fact that the violence dissipated "as it approached the working section" saved the lives of the 252 other men in the New River and Pocahontas Consolidated Coal company's operation, State Mines Chief G. R. Spindler said.

Spindler and A. U. Miller, of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, led an inspection group on a two-and-a-half hour tour of the underground tunnels.

BRIBE CHARGE STRICKEN IN MCKAY TRIAL

SELECTION OF JURY EXPECTED TO TAKE MOST OF TODAY

BY ROBERTA APPLAGATE
Jackson, Mich., Jan. 16. (AP)—The tedious process of examining prospective jurors to hear the trial of Frank D. McKay, of Grand Rapids, and his four associates began in Jackson county circuit court this afternoon, after the bribery phase of the charges against the defendants was eliminated.

Judge John Simpson ordered the mention of bribery stricken from charges of the conspiracy to corrupt the state liquor control commission on the motion of Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler, soon after court opened this morning.

On trial with McKay are William H. McKeighan, former Flint mayor; Fisher L. Layton, Flint politician, and Charles and Earl Williams of Detroit.

Claim Fees Collected

The defendants now are accused of a conspiracy to corrupt the commission by threat and intimidation, and of collecting fees from distillers on the promise of giving their brands of liquor preferential treatment.

Sigler's motion came shortly after William Henry Gallagher, of Detroit, McKay's counsel, unsuccessfully moved to have the information quashed. Gallagher declared that there was a "complete absence at the preliminary examination of a scintilla of evidence on which a charge of bribery could be made." He said that "mere threats and intimidations without describing their nature might or might not be a crime."

The task of selecting a panel of 14 jurors is expected to occupy most of tomorrow's court sessions. Because of the expected length of the trial two extra jurors will be drawn, and then dismissed before the jury retires to consider the case. Sigler, declaring that "the gist of the offense is the unlawful agreement" and not the method used to accomplish the agreement, said that the case was not materially changed by withdrawal of the bribery charges.

Recognized As Boss

He declared the defendants unlawfully conspired to obstruct the administration of the state liquor law.

"It was the duty of the liquor commission to act fairly, not to give one group preference over another. Any group which interfered with the law was engaged in a conspiracy," Sigler told the court.

He asserted that "Frank McKay was the recognized political boss of Michigan." His word was law. You couldn't even get a job unless you went to Frank McKay. He even elected a governor, and after the late Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald was elected he took over and controlled the liquor control commission."

Declaring that the "key to the control of the liquor commission rests in the question of purchases and distribution," Sigler concluded that "Frank McKay and the rest of the defendants had control (Continued on Page Two)

REFINERY FIRE COSTS 3 LIVES

Seven Petroleum Tanks Explode In Blaze At Findlay, Ohio

Findlay, O., Jan. 16. (AP)—Plant officials said tonight they believed firemen had brought under control a fire which caused the explosion of seven petroleum products storage tanks, cost three lives and sent flames soaring a thousand feet into the air at the Midwest Refineries here.

The fire had blazed uncontrolled since 9:30 this morning and for hours threatened high octane gasoline storage tanks.

Two men were injured critically. Further destruction was spared by the fortunate easterly direction of the wind, Vice-President L. A. Woodward said. The wind swept sparks and fire almost exactly between the refinery and the crude storage areas.

The plants, lying at the southwest edge of this community of 22,000 population, contains more than 50 tanks of gasoline, asphalt and kerosene. The tanks have a capacity of 50,000 gallons upward.

As all the fire-fighting equipment of this city, aided by facilities from other communities, fought the spectacular blaze, officials said there was little danger of it spreading into the city.

President Sets His Deadline For Steel Strike Settlement

Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—President Truman tonight told CIO President Philip Murray and president of the U. S. Steel Corporation, Benjamin I. Fairless, to settle their wage dispute by tomorrow afternoon or he will make a proposal himself "in the public interest."

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told newsmen, after the principals recessed their conversations until 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) tomorrow that the president asked for an agreement when they return then or within a "reasonable time thereafter" during the afternoon.

Ross said, in response to questions, that seizure of the vital steel industry "has not entered into the discussions" up to now.

Ross told a news conference that each principal was "very strongly of the opinion that he had the right side of the argument." But he added that "they're still negotiating."

Fairless, upon leaving the conference, similarly said that "the negotiations are still on." But neither he nor Murray would say what progress, if any, had been made.

Ross said he knew of no plans for Fairless and Murray to meet in the interim before reconvening at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Fairless is known to have offered to increase the pay of the steel workers 15 cents an hour, while Murray has shaved his original demand of 25 cents an hour to 19 1/2 cents increase.

The president called Murray and Fairless in after tonight's conversations, asked them if they had reached agreement and received a negative reply.

At the start of their night session, Mr. Truman called the principals into his office and urged them, "in very vigorous terms," Ross reported, to reach an agreement which would avert the strikes set for Monday. He made a similar plea to them at the start of their afternoon session.

The president also conferred with Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, presumably on the steel discussions, although Ross would not say as to this. Bowles has been represented as opposing any steel price increase exceeding $2.50 a ton, while other officials reportedly would sanction a $4 rise. The steel companies have linked their demands for higher prices directly with the union's request for a wage increase.

NEW CLUE SEEN IN DEGNAN CASE

Story Of Woman Held At Sheboygan Checked By Chicago Police

Chicago, Jan. 16. (AP)—Chief of Detectives Walter Storms said tonight police working on the Degnan kidnap-slitting case were investigating the story of a woman, held at Sheboygan, Wis., regarding conversations she said she had with a Chicago man.

Another development in the search for the slayer of six-year old Suzanne Degnan was police disclosure that a man living near the Degnan home on the north side had been seized and would be taken to the central detective bureau for questioning.

Police said no charges had been filed or contemplated against either the man or woman in the Degnan case.

At Sheboygan, Police Chief Wagner said the woman, Gloria Williams, 23, alias Patricia Johnson, said in her statement she overheard a conversation between a man and another woman in a north side tavern on Friday or Saturday before the kidnapping and that she, Miss Williams, talked to the man herself Tuesday, the day after the crime.

Chief Wagner said Miss Williams gave the signed statement in the presence of himself and James Garvey, a Chicago detective sergeant, and expressed willingness to go to Chicago to "tell what she knows."

"We have questioned her thoroughly but she sticks to her story," Chief Wagner said. "It looks as though she really does know something about the case."

House Party Holdup Plotted In Tavern Admitted By Youths

Detroit, Jan. 16. (AP)—Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien said today that he has obtained confessions from three youths that they staged a holdup of a house party in exclusive Grosse Pointe after plotting the crime in taverns in St. Clair Shores.

The prosecutor said the three who have confessed are Russell Conway, 20; Elmer H. Gogglin, also 20; and Walter Willey, 19, all of St. Clair Shores.

O'Brien said the three drank together in two taverns and shortly after midnight invaded the home of Joseph J. Hayes, retired brokerage firm executive.

The youths are accused of clubbing one of the party guests, Dr. Edward E. Carmichael, with the butt of a shotgun and taking an undetermined sum of money from seven other guests.

O'Brien said the three will be arraigned Saturday on armed robbery charges.

PAY DEMANDS OF ONE UNION ARE MODIFIED

GOVERNMENT CALLS MEETING TO CUT STRIKE SHORT

Chicago, Jan. 16. (AP)—Government officials tonight arranged a hurried conference in Washington aimed at cutting short a nationwide packing house strike and one of the two striking unions modified its wage demands.

The nation faced a famine in fresh meat within two to ten days unless the government peace efforts, centering in the capital tomorrow, succeed in halting the widespread walkout which started this morning.

Will Accept 15 Cents

Earl W. Jimsom, president, and Patrick E. Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the AFL Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers, announced their organization dropped its demand for a wage increase, crux of the dispute, to 15 cents an hour and asked the CIO union to go along with that demand.

The CIO withheld comment on the AFL wage modification, but earlier in the day said it was standing on its demand of a 17 1/2 cents boost immediately, with later negotiations on an additional 7 1/2 cents. The CIO originally demanded a 25 cents an hour hike and the AFL the equivalent of that amount. Both said the average hourly straight-time rate in the industry now was 51 1/2 cents.

A statement by Jimsom and Gorman said the packers' offer of "10 cents an hour was 'very inadequate' but that if the packers offered 15 cents 'we shall accept it and normal operations in all plants where our membership is involved will begin on Monday, Jan. 21'."

In Washington Edgar L. Warren, chief federal conciliator, said appointment of a fact-finding board was under consideration.

Shipments Curtailed

Effects of the strike in sharply curtailed supplies of fresh meat became immediately apparent all across the nation. Hog receipts at twelve leading midwest markets today were 17,700, compared with 118,849 a week ago.

Generally, according to previously announced union plans, maintenance workers were permitted to pass through picket lines to operate refrigeration machinery, lest dressed, stored meat spoil. Handlers were permitted to care for live animals on hand when the strike began. Trucks designated for hospitals and similar institutions were permitted to proceed.

Housewives rushed to buy retailers' stocks in many places. Live-stock producers cut the supply of live animals going to market. Supplies of cold storage meat were abnormally low. Detroit dealers reported a five-day supply on hand.

BY MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—OPA, fearing "tremendous pressure" on meat price ceilings as a result of the Packinghouse Workers strike, today promised swift action against any blackmarkets.

The agency strengthened its enforcement staff as a retail meat dealers' spokesman warned that if the stoppage is in effect a week or ten days it will make wartime black markets "look like a Sunday (Continued on Page Two)

DILLMAN TALK SWAYS SOLONS

Head Of Michigan Tech Knows How To Get Appropriations

Lansing — Prying money from the state treasury is child's play for Grover C. Dillman, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and former state highway commissioner and budget director.

There's a story around the capitol that Dillman always gets what he wants from the state legislature, and that lawmakers listen respectfully when the former state official presents his requests.

Whether Dillman gets $200,000 for establishing and maintaining a branch of his school at Fort Brady, the abandoned Army barracks, is doubtful. If he doesn't get it, it will be the first time in many years that Dillman has slipped.

Proof of Dillman's understanding of the mysterious ways of the legislature lies in a progressive story that began in 1941. It has a sequence this year.

The year of Pearl Harbor Dillman asked the legislature—and got—$200,000 for a combination gymnasium and auditorium for his school. The following year, before the money was spent, he revised his cost estimates and said he needed $350,000; later, he said the figure should be $550,000.

I was no surprise then, when Dillman before the 1945 legislative session, announced he wanted two buildings, a gymnasium and an auditorium, each to cost $450,000.

The last legislature gave Dillman $200,000 to add to the original $200,000 for the gymnasium.

Now Dillman is before the lawmakers again, asking that the special session of the legislature give him $450,000 for an auditorium, plus $30,000 to cover extra expenses for building the gymnasium.

Service Station Solves Problems For Many Folks

Cincinnati (NEA)—The Car Stop Service attendants fill the customer's gas tank, wipe his windshield and supply him with groceries, razor blades, ice cream, rat bait, lipstick, shoe strings, potato chips and helpful advice.

Norman, Al and Joe Michaels, three brothers, decided during the gas shortage war days that what gas stations needed was service. So they installed it on a scale that combines the best features of the store and the psychiatrist.

They stocked up with everything from safety pins to dog food and broken hearts, unloaded trucks, paid bills for neighbors and organized a "Truth Club."

The Truth Club gathers in the converted street car gas-store and tells whoopers in the afternoon. Members dig into a big barrel of potato chips for refreshments. The guy who tells a true story is thrown out.

"Mothers who want to shop leave their children with us," one of the brothers said. "If someone gets locked out of his house we fetch a ladder and get him in. We've done some rat-proofing for a neighbor."

The Car Stop Service Station also mends broken watch springs in addition to distributors and axels. They dipped into the love-lorn field not long ago and saved a local romance from going on the rocks. They saw their job through to the marriage license.

There are cases of soft drinks and beer to take home at the station. When supplies ease up there will be bobby pins, hair nets, gloves and handkerchiefs.

URGES END OF SOVEREIGNTY

Sir Beveridge Writes In Rotarian, Warns Nations

New York (AP)—The basic essential of world peace, in the opinion of Sir William Beveridge, British economist and author, "is the abandonment of sovereignty in the old anarchic sense of a claim by every nation to be a law to itself, not only domestically, but also in its dealings with other nations."

Writing in the January issue of Rotarian magazine, he says: "As long as any nation strong enough to be a danger to its neighbors claims to be final judge in any dispute with its neighbors, there is risk of war, and as long as there is risk of war, there will be fear of war, and preparations inspired by fear will increase fear and the risk of war."

He holds, however, that peace "must be reconciled with the preservation of essential human freedoms."

"Freedom for the individual does not mean aarchy, but an effective voice in making with his fellows the rule of law under which he and all his fellows shall live," he says.

"The atomic bomb makes war more terrible and more sudden. It raises therefore, enormously the price which is worth while to pay for peace. X X X (It) makes other armaments of secondary importance and makes their maintenance on any large scale absurd. This will not of course, be accepted by the military machines of the world, by the admirals, generals and air marshals. They will cling to their outmoded weapons as their predecessors clung to bows and arrows after the invention of gunpowder."

"The crucial responsibility rests on those who have power in the world today of deciding that no more than one factory of atomic bombs is needed or will be permitted on our planet. This means having a scientific inspection throughout the world, sufficiently detailed to discover if bombs are being made. It means being prepared if necessary to go to war now to stop production in more than one place."

New Crosley Car Larger, Twice The Power, Same Weight

Cincinnati—High power, light weight, low cost and economy in operation are features claimed for the new streamlined Crosley automobile by its maker here, Crosley Motors, Inc. Although 25 inches longer, complete with an aluminum turret top, and having an engine twice as powerful as the pre-war model, it will weigh no more than the old canvas-top car, the company states.

The new Crosley is capable of a top speed of 60 miles an hour, and it can run 50 miles on a single gallon of ordinary gasoline at 35 miles an hour, it is claimed. The use of aluminum in place of steel saves 200 pounds in weight. Its water-cooled engine is a 26-horsepower plant with four cylinders. The car is approximately 12 feet in length from bumper to bumper, has an 80-inch wheel base and a 40-inch tread. Its overall height is 57 inches. It seats four persons.

An OPA official who asked to remain anonymous said the agency's offices throughout the country had been alerted in advance of the strike, and that the OPA meat price enforcement staff already has been enlarged to cope with any emergency.

"We estimate," the official said, "that the strike may shut off about 80 per cent of the normal meat supply. That means that whatever meat is available will be worth its weight in gold and that many people will be willing to pay away above ceiling prices for it."

He said that actually the strike "will only intensify" an already acute meat price enforcement problem.

He stressed that violators of ceilings face stiff penalties and that OPA will not hesitate to invoke them.

Special Baby Ships Bring Brides Home From South Pacific

San Francisco, Jan. 16 (AP)—Specially-equipped "baby ships" henceforth will transport war brides and babies of American servicemen from Australia and New Zealand to the United States, the War Shipping Administration announced today.

The announcement followed protests from war brides arriving Jan. 14 from New Zealand. They complained of accommodations aboard the freighter Permanente.

The "baby ships" will provide the following facilities, the WSA announcement said: diaper laundry, baby baths, playrooms, nurseries, sterilization kitchens, baby foods, talcum powder, absorbent soaps, and baby oils.

In addition to the regular transport crews, the following "baby staff" will be aboard: two doctors, five nurses, eight Wacs, four enlisted men, and one to four Red Cross representatives.

The Monterey was the first ship to be assigned to Pacific duty. It now is being outfitted and will leave Australia Jan. 24 with 1,200 brides, babies and service families aboard.

Peace Negotiators In China Worried By Armed Clashes

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Jan. 16 (AP) — Gen. Chang Chun, government truce negotiator, told China's unity conference today that armed clashes still were reported in the north—the Communists said in seven strategic provinces.

(U. S. Marine planes dumped cease-fire leaflets over three strife-torn provinces today as a special commission in Peiping strove to check the clashes, Associated Press correspondent Qlen Clements reported.)

Chou En-lai, the Communist negotiator, said both he and General Chang were "worried by reports of continued fighting."

General Chang also announced that a three-man committee, set up under a Kuomintang-Communist agreement Oct. 10, met yesterday to consider reorganization of China's army. Under the proposed plan Communist divisions would become a part of the national armies for the first time.

Representatives of the government, the Communists and the Democratic League all agreed that the armies should be divorced from politics and belong to the state instead of individual parties as now.

A British photographer took their picture, then said to Townsend: "I beg your pardon, sir, are you Senator Townsend?" Townsend nodded, and the photographer asked Vandenberg, "and who are you, sir?"

Replied the Michigan senator, "I'm Lorna Doone."

The photographer jotted down his caption notes, "Senator Townsend, Mr. Lorna Doone."

over purchases and distribution of liquor."

JAILED FOR CONTEMPT — Lansing, Jan. 16 (AP)—Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash, Ingham county grand juror, tonight sentenced Thomas E. Crawford, 49-year-old Grand Rapids private detective, to 60 days in jail for contempt of court.

Prosecutor Victor C. Anderson said Crawford was sentenced for "refusal and failure to appear in court in response to a subpoena" issued by the grand jury investigating corruption in state government.

Anderson said the subpoena was served on Crawford Jan. 8 and that Crawford immediately left for Grand Rapids, picked up his wife and drove to Chicago where he stayed until Tuesday with a brother-in-law at a hotel. He said Crawford consulted a "Chicago superior judge" about the validity of the subpoena, was told it was valid, but remained in Chicago until two attorneys arrived to consult with him. He identified one of the attorneys as Henry Beers, former Muskegon county prosecutor, but said he did not know the other.

With the attorneys, Anderson said, Crawford flew to Lansing Tuesday to appear before the court.

Anderson said Crawford, was wanted for questioning in regard to the circulation of copies of the Michigan State Digest, a Lansing political weekly, to prospective jurors called for the trial of Frank D. McKay and four co-defendants on charges of liquor law conspiracy.

Rev. Ward Speaks At Marquette Club

Marquette, Mich. — Kiwanians building for the future must have "a greater faith in God and a greater faith in ourselves," it was asserted by the Rev. James G. Ward, Sr., rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, Escanaba, and lieutenant-governor of the Wisconsin-Northern Michigan Kiwanis district, who was principal speaker Monday night in the Hotel Clifton at the dinner at which officers of the Marquette Kiwanis club were installed.

It was the club's tenth annual installation and was attended by 92 Kiwanians and their ladies, including 14 from Iron Mountain and eight from Escanaba.

"Anyone who studies the arguments for belief in God," said the Rev. Mr. Ward, "will see the necessity for building God's world, the world of Wendell Willkie's 'One World,' rather than man's world, which has been pretty well shot to pieces. We must live more by spiritual than by material laws."

"We must have a greater faith in ourselves," he continued, "as men created equal and endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Hitler once said 'the individual is nothing,' but our conception is that the state is for the individual. Another Hitler may arise at any time in China, England, Russia or even in America, and as Kiwanians we must see to it that this does not happen."

Women should salute the flag by placing their right hand over their heart.

Engine Involved In Appleton Accident Ready For Service

Green Bay, Wis.—After undergoing repairs at the North Western shops here for six weeks, locomotive 1607, which went in the ditch north of Appleton the night before Thanksgiving after striking an automobile, was ready for service today. It underwent a "break-in" on Sunday and Monday.

The locomotive tipped over on its side after leaving the rails, and the combined strength of two 100-ton wrecking cranes was required to get it back on the track. While damage was severe, it was not excessive in view of the strains to which the engine had been subjected, officials stated.

Of the four coaches derailed, one has been sent to Chicago for repairs, and three are still in the yards here. One of these is to be overhauled for removal to Chicago for rebuilding, and it is believed that the other two will be scrapped.

All except two of the 56 persons taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital with injuries received in the derailment have been released. The two still remaining are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Senger, Milwaukee, both of whom sustained severe neck injuries. Gerald St. Peter, Escanaba, discharged sailor, who had been regarded as the most critically hurt, left for his home some time ago.

The only persons fatally injured were two of the three occupants of the automobile. The third escaped by jumping before the train hit the car.

Grid Loop Adopts 1946 Playing Chart

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The National Football League climaxed five days of schedule maneuvering today by adopting a 1946 playing chart, opening Sept. 22 and closing Dec. 8, with each club playing 11 games.

The title playoff between the Eastern and Western divisional champions will be held in the home park of the Eastern winner on Dec. 15 unless sectional ties should set it back a week.

The New York Giants, Washington Redskins, Chicago Bears, Detroit Lions and Boston Yanks each will play six home games and five on the road. It will be five home and six away for the Philadelphia Eagles, Pittsburgh Steelers, Chicago Cardinals, Los Angeles (nee Cleveland) Rams and the Green Bay Packers.

The schedule will return to the pre-war scheme of home and home series for each team in its own division and three single outside games with the opposite geographical division.

"SEA RIVERS"

Rivers do not end when they reach the sea, but continue far out from shore before losing themselves. In many cases, the river valley continues as an under-sea valley, which holds the river in its course.

DOCK WORKER GETS ICY BATH

Donald Rheame Escapes Drowning When Tractor Drops Thru Ice

Donald Rheame, 1405 Stephenson Avenue, 39-year-old C&NW railroad dock employee, escaped drowning but got an icy bath about 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning when the tractor he was operating plunged through the ice between the No. 6 ore dock and the breakwater. Other dock workmen succeeded in getting Rheame out of the water almost immediately, he was rushed home and was reported to be suffering no serious effects of the accident last night.

The crack through which the tractor fell was evidently concealed by snow as tests of other spots of ice nearby showed safe thicknesses of ten and a half to 12 inches, a railroad official said.

The tractor was being used to haul dock timbers. Workmen were able to secure it with hooks and the machine will be removed from the water by a crane probably today.

Liquor Violation Penalties Boosted; No Pinball Games

The penalty for selling to minors or permitting them to consume liquor on the premises is 30-day suspension for a first offense, 60-day suspension for a second offense and revocation of license for a third offense.

Licenseses found guilty of selling or serving liquor on Sundays will be given penalties ranging from a fine of $300 to revocation of license.

Construction of the White House in Washington started in 1792. The building was burned by the British in 1814 and reconstruction began the following year.

Urges Government Lease Waterpower

Sault Ste. Marie—The Sault Ste. Marie city commission unanimously adopted a resolution recommending to the federal government that the Michigan Northern Power company be granted a 30-year lease on surplus water in St. Mary's river.

Mayor Maurice E. Hunt pointed out that the Sault must watch for its own interests. Should the Michigan Northern Power company and the Union Carbide company leave town, because they lacked necessary power, he said he feared that all the power they would have used would leave the area on the high lines. He referred to a recent meeting in Manistique in which that community advised its citizens that the power situation at the Sault is Manistique's problem.

PLANT BUILDING BEING READIED

Delta Furniture Company
Expected To Resume
Operation Soon

Improvements to a city-owned building at the Steele-Wallace site in Escanaba as a "home" for the Delta Furniture company, whose plant at Wells was destroyed by fire Jan. 1, are being rushed by the city and it may be possible for the company to resume operations before the end of the month.

Harry P. Bourke and O. J. Thorson, president and vice-president of the Delta Furniture company, yesterday said that wood working machinery is arriving and that when the building in Escanaba is ready it will take only a short time to install the equipment and be ready to start operations.

A. V. Aronson, Escanaba city manager yesterday reported that the work of converting the brick building opposite the E. & L. S. station on Stephenson avenue has been slowed because of the difficulty in obtaining materials. Carpenters and plumbers are now at work there, and the installation of heating equipment is expected to start within a couple days. Only one-half of the floor space is concrete, and concrete will be poured to complete the improvement.

The furniture company's plant was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin the night of Jan. 1. The loss to the company was about $20,000, and the building, owned by the E. & L. S. railroad, was valued at about $10,000. The loss was covered by insurance.

The company has been operating only six months and was employing 23 persons when the fire occurred.

ANCIENT MAN CAME TO U. S.

First Immigrant Moved To America Via Alaska

Washington. — America's first wave of immigrants "came across" something like 15,000 or 20,000 years ago, states Dr. F. H. H. Roberts, Jr., Smithsonian Institution anthropologist. That was at the close of the last great Ice Age; before that the road had been blocked by impassable glaciers for at least another 20,000 years, and it is considered highly improbable that human beings were travelling in this direction as much as 40,000 years ago.

The successive waves of migrants from Asia moved along two great main routes after they reached Alaska. Dr. Roberts has concluded on the basis of finds of their stone implements and the bones of the now extinct animals they hunted. One of these routes went eastward to the Mackenzie river, then southward into the Plains region east of the Rockies. An alternate course of this same Plains route was by way of the upper Yukon and its tributaries, the Liard and Peace river valleys. This was the first great migration track.

The second, which opened a little afterwards, led southward along the Fraser river and out onto the Great Basin plateau, west of the Rockies. Eventually descendants of the people who followed this western track made their way into Arizona, southern California, and probably northern Mexico.

South America, Dr. Roberts believes, was peopled by later descendants of both streams of migrants, who funneled down through the long peninsula of Mexico and the narrow bottleneck of Central America. The southern continent apparently was settled considerably later than North America, though even at that the presence of extinct animal remains along with evidences of human occupation suggests considerable antiquity for South American man.

The ancestors of the Indians left stone implements quite distinct from those of their descendants, some of them bearing striking similarities to those of ice-age men in Europe. Dr. Roberts points out, however, that these similarities are superficial and misleading. Whatever tool-making culture the early migrants brought with them must have been that of eastern Asia, where the development of stone working was quite distinct from that of Europe.

Pleads Guilty To Charge Of Assault; Pays Fine Of $25

Martin Ritchie, 36, of 1206 1/2 North 21st street, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery here yesterday and was fined $25 and costs by Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette.

Sault Man's Auto Kills Small Buck

Sault Ste. Marie — No one can accuse Elmer Hannahs of passing the buck.

The one that jumped into the path of his car Sunday on the bridge across Paquin Creek west of St. Ignace was killed instantly. Hannahs' car, in which he and Otis Rightmyer and Bill Calder drove to Escanaba to attend a church meeting Sunday was damaged only to the extent of a broken headlight.

The buck was a small one, weighing eighty pounds.

Clothing Drive Continues Here

The Victory Clothing Collection, which opened in Escanaba yesterday, will continue through Friday with the collection being made by children of the public and parochial schools. Persons who may have garments they wish to contribute may take them to the school building nearest them.

The clothing is being collected throughout the nation this month and will be shipped overseas to aid men, women and children in war devastated countries. It has been reported by UNRRA that in many sections of Europe, China and the Philippines there is urgent need of clothing, shoes and bedding.

Infants' and children's wear, clothing for men and women, shoes, overshoes, bedding and useable remnants are needed. The garments must be clean, and in useable condition.

Articles received will be given a preliminary sorting at the schools and then taken to the Salvation Army building, 600 block Ludington street, where they will be finally sorted and packed for shipment.

Woman Is Charged With Child Neglect

Marquette — Mrs. Tiny Niemi Black, 29, arraigned in municipal court yesterday on a charge of contributing to the negligence of her two minor children, pleaded guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $25 and costs of $6.60 and serve 30 days in the county jail. She paid the costs, the fine and jail sentence were suspended by Municipal Judge John Siegel and she was placed on probation for one year.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Black, who has a baby eight months old and another child five years old and was staying in a tourist cabin in the city, left the baby with a family in a next-door cabin and the five-year-old child with a family on Bluff street and said she wanted to do some shopping and would be gone about two hours. Monday morning the families taking care of her children reported to the county welfare department that she had not returned.

After an investigation the welfare agent procured a warrant for her arrest and she was found Monday evening in a tavern by city police. She was held in the county jail until her arraignment yesterday. Her husband, who has served in the Army about two years, is stationed at Guam.

Strike Of Timber Workers Settled

Ironwood — The strike called by the timber workers union against the Mosinee Paper Co. in December has been called off and the logging camp employees involved are being instructed to return to work. Waite Patterson, councillor for the Michigan department of labor, announced last night.

The strike was called by Local 15 of the International Woodworkers of America, CIO, immediately after announcement that the Mosinee company had sold its Michigan properties to the Roddis Lumber & Veneer Co.

In announcing settlement of the strike, which affected two logging camps south of Wakefield, Patterson said the Mosinee company had agreed to pay back pay under a WLB directive to employees involved. As to the Roddis company, said Patterson, the union agreed to call the men back to work pending completion for a new contract. Major details of the contract have been agreed upon, leaving only minor points still to be settled, Patterson declared.

CNW Has New Coal Chute In Operation

Green Bay, Wis. — North Western locomotives are now being fueled at the new concrete coal chute recently placed in service in the north yards. An electrically operated skip lifts coal from a pit, into which it is dumped from the railroad cars, to the top of the concrete hopper, from which it is chuted into the locomotive tenders. The new unit takes the place of the 30-year-old frame chute.

New stoker-fired boilers have been placed in service in the roundhouse for heating and power, replacing the hand-fired boilers that had been in use for many years. The new units burn crushed coal, which is blown into the firebox by forced draft. Most of it is burned before reaching the grates, with the result that little ash is produced. While the new boilers were being installed, a locomotive was used to furnish heat.

Eisenhower Explains

Gen. Eisenhower's explanation of the army's demobilization program reveals that the current needs for overseas troops are approximately a million and a half men, with 622,000 soldiers required in Europe and 665,000 in the Pacific, but the army chief of staff declared the troop requirements will be sharply reduced in the next few months. By July 1 only 307,000 men will be required in Europe and 375,000 in Europe. Thus, the requirements will be scaled to materially less than half in only five months.

Gen. Eisenhower's attitude of friendliness toward the soldiers who fought so valiantly for victory under his command and recognition of similar sacrifices made by troops serving in the Pacific emphasizes that he will insist upon fair play for men who have earned their discharge.

The army chief of staff, who led the victorious campaign in the European theater, knows our obligations for preserving the terms of victory. He will undoubtedly see that the obligations are met with the least possible injustice to the soldiers who made that victory possible.

Copper Mining Wanes

The Lake Superior region, or more specifically the Michigan Copper Country, produced 30,665 tons of copper in 1945, or 91 per cent of the output of the Central States area, according to a preliminary report by the Bureau of Mines.

The figure is not as impressive as it sounds, however, for the Central States area is only a minor factor in the industry, as most copper production now comes from Montana, Utah and other western states.

Mining in the Michigan Copper Country has been on the decline the past quarter century. Back in World War I, there were 20,000 persons employed in the industry, but during the war just ended the peak figure was about 4,500. With the suspension of premium and bonus payments to stimulate wartime production and the Copper Range strike, two companies have ceased mining operations, and now employment is down to approximately 3,500 persons in mines, stamp mills and reclamation plants.

But while mining has been declining, lumbering activity has greatly increased in the Copper Country in recent years. Number of persons employed in woods operations and mills in Houghton and Keweenaw counties is estimated at 6,000.

Highest production in the history of the Michigan Copper Country was 134,897 tons in 1916 and the average for the 100-year period ending in 1944 was 47,727 tons. Mining has waned because the most productive lodes have become exhausted, and the miners have been forced to dig deeper for the copper-bearing ore. Some mining has gone as deep as 7,000 feet and other unprofitable depths. Only the payment of bonuses enabled some high-cost mines to continue during wartime.

A parallel might be drawn between mining and lumbering in the Copper Country. Cutting of timber is proceeding at a furious rate. In recent years, Wisconsin companies have bought up large tracts to supply their paper and woodworking plants in their own state. Within a few years, the timber will go the way of copper unless some form of sustained yield lumbering is practiced. The Copper Country also would realize greater employment from its forests if it could a greater degree of utilization through the establishment of woodworking plants where the trees are being felled.

Considerable employment is provided by the cutting of timber and shipment to Wisconsin mills. It is true, but there would be many more lucrative jobs if more finished products were turned out in the Copper Country. The same might be said for other districts in the Upper Peninsula.

Charge of Army Waste

There have been so many rumors of tremendous army wastes and reckless disposal of surplus goods overseas since the end of the war that it is encouraging to note that an official Senate investigation is under way. Whether the rumors are true or false, the American public should know the facts.

To get the facts, however, the Senate sub-committee should not race through the overseas stations and army camps as though they were on a sight-seeing jaunt. The committee, investigating charges of waste at Batangas, Philippines, apparently hurried through its investigation so rapidly that it failed to give soldiers opportunity to assemble witnesses who may have been able to substantiate the charges.

The American people, who have to foot the bill for army waste, if any, are entitled to know all of the facts and the committee will do its job well if it is willing to listen to all who can shed any light on the conditions as they actually exist.

Waste of any commodities is condemnable.

able at any time, but particularly now when the entire world is crying out for more of even the barest necessities of life.

Ships for Housing?

SOME universities and colleges are refusing to admit thousands of ex-servicemen due to the lack of housing and adequate teaching staffs.

Someone has suggested as a remedy that naval vessels, out of commission, be used as temporary schools. Perhaps, some of the smaller transport ships could be brought to the Great Lakes and tied up in the harbors at Milwaukee, Green Bay, Houghton, Detroit, Chicago and other cities where colleges are located.

All this would probably take much unraveling of official red tape, but if ex-servicemen are anxious to obtain more education everything possible should be done to find accommodations for them. It would also help somewhat to relieve the housing congestion that prevails in every community in the nation.

A Blow In the Stomach

THE packinghouse worker's strike, which went into effect yesterday morning, hits the public where it hurts the most. The other strikes, and projected strikes, have been serious enough but the packinghouse worker's strike is far more serious because it will shut off most of the nation's meat supply.

Even more discouraging is the fact that settlement of the packinghouse workers strike probably will be even more difficult than the strikes in the automobile industry because the spread in workers' demand and the employers' offer of wage increase is greater.

Some progress has been made in reconciling the differences of the packers and their employers, it is true, but the spread is still great. The workers' original demand of 25c an hour increase has been scaled down to 17½ cents and the packers have boosted their offer from 7½ cents to 10 cents. The difference of 7½ cents per hour represents the basis for the current strike.

President Truman has announced that the government has no plans for seizing the meat industry, but government seizure is inevitable if the labor dispute is not settled within the matter of a very few days. One thing is certain. The public will not tolerate an absence of meat from the table for any great length of time without stirring a concerted protest. We learned this in the period of meat shortages under the rationing program. Public demand for action was both loud and vigorous. At that time meat was scarce but there was always some available. The packinghouse workers' strike, however, will shut off virtually all but meat supplies which can be obtained locally.

WINTER SPORTS BOOM
(Ironwood Globe)

The anticipated boom in winter sports interest has already reached the point in Ironwood where facilities now provided at Mount Zion are proving inadequate to accommodate peak crowds.

When development of the Mount Zion winter sports area was started a few years before the war it was expected that public interest would be great and would increase as time went on. This trend had been seen in other winter sports areas and there was no reason to believe it would prove otherwise.

Interest was maintained during the war years, even though the number of participants was limited for obvious reasons. Facilities then were adequate, as they were before the war.

Ironwood's position as a winter sports center is unique for a number of reasons. First and foremost, there always is assurance of ample snow for a longer season than elsewhere in the north central region. The Mount Zion area also is unexcelled for downhill and slalom skiing and can be still further improved. The area is easily accessible from the downtown district, a point that is of interest to out of town visitors.

It now appears that the present ski tow, believed to be the only municipally operated facility of the kind in the country, is becoming inadequate, especially for the large week end crowds that are now turning out. The matter seems deserving of consideration by the city commission. It may be that a second tow, with greater capacity than the present one, is needed, as well as modern toboggan slides.

It may be that the city is reaching the stage where it will have to decide whether it is to continue to develop as a winter, as well as summer, recreational center, or is to fall behind. Winter vacation travel may be expected to continue to grow. Much of it can be attracted here, with attendant benefit to the entire community, if facilities are provided. It will go elsewhere if development of necessary facilities is not continued. At the moment Ironwood has a head start and its leadership in winter sports is becoming ever more widely known. It is a position that is worth keeping and strengthening.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington — Whatever reservoir of good will labor may have had left is rapidly being drained off. That is a fact which some labor leaders themselves are at last beginning to realize.

Strikes called in public service industries produce too many irritations. And wherever the blame may actually lie, whether with the unions or with management, the unions will get the blame. You have only to glance at the headlines — "Strike ties up all nation's phones" — to realize that.

Add to this the heedless irresponsibility of some union leaders. In New York, Matthew J. Quill, head of the Transport Workers union, talked about "pulling out" 600,000 CIO members in the city in a repetition of the Stamford, Conn., "General Strike."

No one in authority in CIO's top leadership had authorized any such suggestion. But, so far as the public reaction is concerned, that doesn't matter once the statement has got into print attached to a supposedly responsible individual.

—WIPING OUT LABOR'S GAINS—
It almost seems, sometimes, that extreme left wing elements in the trade union movement were launched on a deliberate wrecking campaign to wipe out all of labor's gains during the past 12 years. If that is their objective, they are going about it in exactly the right way.

Members of congress are coming back in a resentful mood. If major strikes are still in progress when congress settles down to work, then the likelihood is for legislation restricting the unions and, it is probable, restricting management at the same time.

In a hard-hitting radio speech the other night, Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, for many months a member of the war labor board before he was elected to the Senate, charged that the Truman administration had not really tried the method of arbitration. Dubious of the technique of fact-finding boards and the pressures of public opinion, Morse said that President Truman should have told both management and labor that he intended to appoint arbitrators whose decisions would also be binding on the government.

At the same time, Morse says he will vote for the President's fact-finding proposal. There are undoubtedly many senators in just that position. They are not at all sure of the remedy, but they are prepared to vote for anything that may help.

In its own self-interest, organized labor might be well advised at this time to favor legislation which would limit the right to strike in public service industries—hospitals, utilities and so on. There is a very simple way to do that without passing elaborate legislation providing for fact-finding boards.

—HAVE LIMITED AUTHORITY—
The basic act creating the department of labor gives the secretary of labor the right to name conciliators who work to solve industrial disputes. But these conciliators have only limited authority. If their efforts fail, then the issue goes to a strike.

An amendment to the labor department law would give the secretary power in a few industries—transportation, communications, certain natural resource industries, such as coal, where the union has a monopoly—to proclaim the existence of an emergency when a strike threatens. Under such a proclamation, both labor and management would be ordered to refrain from any strike, lockout or changes in condition and terms of employment until the issue was referred to a special arbitration panel to be chosen by the secretary.

These powers would be rarely used. They would be used only when the consuming public was about to be squeezed in such a way as certain to create a wave of hostility toward labor.

The labor legislation adopted since 1933 was based on the promise that organized labor would remain relatively weak and defenseless in the face of the unlimited power of big industry. Something like equality between the two sides, with mass unions dominating whole industries, was not foreseen.

Legislative changes are on the way. Whether they are reasonable and constructive depends on the conduct of labor in coming weeks.

and pleasant to listen to. It is unusually well suited to radio.

Enunciation, very good. He strikes the happy medium between the careless and the over-precise. Of the two, the latter, to my mind, is especially to be avoided by men speakers. In this forthright, masculine-natured country, the eyebrow is always lifted at the exquisite male.

Style, quite distinctive, and indicating a colorful and forceful personality. Mr. Johnston wins the column's warm commendation for the genuineness of his American manner of speech. His pattern is Mid-Western (Standard or General American, as distinguished from the New England and the Southern dialects); and not once during the broadcast checked for this article did he voice a single prettiness or depart from his own natural and unaffected way of speaking.

I have invented the term "microphonitis" to describe a curious phenomenon of broadcasting—the rash of "culchah" that is often induced by the radio gram. The disease manifests itself by the patient's aping of the British, or speaking in the pompous "I have been agahst at the vahst dahshar at the airchraft plahnt" pidiculousity. So far as I know, microphonitis is incurable.

Pronunciation, accurate to a very high degree. Indeed, during the broadcast checked (Town Meeting) I was unable to detect a single mispronounced word, and much of his speaking was extemporary.

Good Morning!

—By The Bugler

HOLIDAY AFTERMATH—Many people keep their holiday decorations, Christmas trees and Christmas cards around long after the festive season is past. Others dispose of them right after New Year's.

It has been our experience that it is best to clear the holiday debris away as soon as possible, because you never know what will happen if you keep the stuff around too long. Take the case of Stanley Oetman and family of 1204 Eighth avenue south, where their Christmas tree is not only still in existence—it is growing! Set in water when erected in the home at Christmas, the tree has added inches to its top and new growth is evident on the branches.

What this will lead to, if permitted to continue, is rather shocking to contemplate. Eventually Mr. Oetman will have to start swinging his axe, and the tree will be brought down amid shouts of "timber-r-r!" and the crash of breaking furniture. This is entirely exaggeration, of course, but it is presented to point a moral: Christmas trees, like Christmas ties, should be quickly disposed of for the sake of harmony.

COMMUNITY PROBLEM—Over in Manistique they have made the disposal of old Christmas trees a community affair, and they are collected by the city and erected along highways to prevent the snow from drifting on the roads and street. This appears to be about the most sensible way of solving the problem.

In most communities, ours included, the householder removes the used tree from the parlor, thence to the back yard, then to the alley. Eventually it finds its way to the city dump, but only after a long period of cluttering up the landscape.

FIRE HAZARD—In many homes the old trees are kept set up for several weeks, even months after Christmas. One family keeps its tree lighted and decorated until Easter.

Unless they are set in water they dry out, become a pyre of tinder that may start a dangerous fire.

HOW TO DO IT—Styling the old tree out of the house is a trying and messy business at best. One couple we know, who live in an upstairs apartment, took their tree apart limb by limb with the butcher knife, and then carried the pieces down the stairs.

In another family, the man of the house got his tent out of basement storage and wrapped the tree in it to carry it out of the house without leaving a trail of dropping needles. The base of the tree poked a hole in the tent, and now he is hardly fit to live with.

The quickest tree removal in history was accomplished one Christmas Eve a few years back in another town. The husband had struggled for hours getting the tree upright, and the family had labored lovingly to make it bright with ornaments and lights. Then it caught fire (probably a short circuit) and began to blaze merrily. The man caught up the tree, ripping the light cords out of their sockets, and galloped out through the front door. This is not a recommended practice on Christmas tree removal, however.

CHRISTMAS CARDS—How to dispose of old Christmas cards is

Anderson Pace of Chicago, head of the firm of engineers engaged for an industrial survey of Escanaba, will be the speaker at a Chamber of Commerce Forum meeting which will be held Thursday night at 6:15 in the Delta hotel.

Manistique—While most of the town was attending a basketball game and dance at the Inwood township high school, fire broke out in the little hamlet of Cooks, completely destroying the two-story frame building which housed a general store, the United States postoffice and the residence of the postmaster, Edward Deloria.

almost as much of a problem as Christmas trees. Of course you may be like one lady who keeps them, stores them away by the trunkful. She just can't bear to part with the pretties.

On the other side are those who toss Christmas cards in the furnace almost as fast as they are received, and themselves never burden the mailman by sending even one. This never seems to discourage the habitual senders, however, for they keep right on addressing cards to the uncooperative couple.

THEY HAVE USES—There is a use for old Christmas cards, and a very worthy use. The Junior Red Cross makes them into place cards and table decorations for shipment to the armed forces overseas, where they will be used in this coming holiday season in hospitals and in camp dining rooms.

Mrs. John Locke of Escanaba, reporting for the Junior Red Cross, said that thousands of such bright reminders of Christmas at home were on hospital trays and dining tables this year, and that more will be made this spring for the coming holiday season. If you have Christmas cards and do not know what to do with them, send them to the schools. There the Junior Red Cross boys and girls in the higher grades will use scissors and paste to make them into decorative pieces which will brighten next Christmas for overseas soldiers.

AND THOSE TIES—While on the subject of what to do with unwanted holiday items, we might consider methods to utilize Christmas neckties. Invariably the man will want to tuck them away in a drawer and eventually burn them without attracting attention.

If the ties are saved from cremation, you might do as one housewife did. She ripped them apart and sewed into a quilt cover. Another woman pieces them to gether into aprons that vibrate like a futuristic painting.

G. I.—VETERANS SERVICE
Q. I am thirty-seven years of age and was discharged two months ago, after having served four years in the Army. Am I too old to join the Regular Army?

A. Men thirty-five years of age and over are eligible for enlistment according to their age and length of previous military service. Since you have served over two years, you are eligible as far as age is concerned for reenlistment.

Q. A serviceman's divorce becomes final in February. When does a change in the wife's status for a family allowance occur?

A. It will terminate on or be modified at the end of the month in which a change of status in the enlisted man or his dependent occurs, rendering her no longer eligible for benefits as a wife. As a divorced wife she is entitled to a family allowance up to $42 per month if the decree provides for alimony. If it does not provide for alimony, she will not be entitled to any further family allowance.

OF GENERAL INTEREST
Q. What is done with the admission fees collected at Yellowstone National Park?

A. Admittance fees to all National Parks, including Yellowstone, are turned over to the National Park Service for use in maintaining the parks.

Q. What is the origin of the expression "halcyon days"?

Q. Does coal lose any of its heating value after being stored a long time?

A. All soft coal depreciates to a certain extent with age, but Pennsylvania bituminous coal depreciates only slightly when exposed to the elements and required at least 20 years or more to depreciate noticeably. Pennsylvania anthracite (hard coal) does not depreciate at all.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Admiral Leahy, who since the departure of Harry Hopkins knows more about what goes on behind the scenes in international conferences than anyone else around the White House, dropped in to see his chief, President Truman, the other day. Leahy has worried over the morale of U. S. troops abroad and recalled a commitment Franklin Roosevelt had made to Churchill to keep more than 2,000,000 men in the American armies of occupation.

"I told Franklin Roosevelt that the Yalta conference," the White House chief of staff said to Truman, "That we couldn't keep that many men abroad. The country, I told him, won't stand for it."

"These are boys who were glad to fight a war to defend their country when it was in danger. But they're not a professional army, and when the fighting's over it'll be like a football game—everybody'll want to go home."

"You can't expect boys to stay over there making $50 a month when they know they can make $50 a week back home."

"That's what I told Roosevelt," Leahy continued. "I'm not at all sure he agreed with me, but that's exactly what's happening today."

"A few hot-heads and Communists are taking advantage of a situation which is ready made for them and the result is making us ridiculous in the eyes of the world."

NOTE—Admiral Leahy doesn't for a minute think we should get out of Germany and Japan altogether. But he does think we can curtail U. S. forces in Germany down to what we actually need and let this army be one of volunteers recruited expressly for overseas occupation. The same system should be followed in Japan, where an occupation force of marines eventually could take over. The islands of the Pacific and many other less essential areas could easily be policed by the navy with much smaller use of manpower.

—CORDELL HULL'S POKER—

Ever since the Texas Baptists lampooned President Truman for poker-playing, everyone around the White House has been poker-shy. So also is Governor Dewey. During the last campaign, one newsmen, after writing a very complimentary story about Dewey, submitted it to him for comment. He described the New York Governor as a home-loving man whose usual form of relaxation was a quiet poker game with a few friends on Saturday night.

Dewey called the author, praised his story, but finally blurted out: "Now, about those Saturday nights—couldn't you change it from poker to bridge?"

Not so sensitive is Cordell Hull. Col. Harold Hinton, now returned from five years in the army to rejoin the New York Times, is Cordell Hull's official biographer. In writing his biography, he sent the former Secretary of State several anecdotes for verification. One was a story regarding Hull's ability as a poker player. In the Spanish-American war, so the story went, Hull was so good at poker that he kept his company continually out of funds.

When the story came back to Hull, the Secretary of State had crossed out the word "Company" and substituted the word "Regiment."

NOTE—There are only 170 men in a company, but about 2,800 in a regiment.

—JAPS AND MARINES COOPERATE—

Two-fisted Maury Maverick, retiring chairman of smaller war plants corporation, gave President Truman a very disturbing report on conditions in the Orient last week.

Maverick told Truman he was particularly distressed about the morale of American forces in China, where they are increasingly embittered at Chiang Kai-Shek. The G. I.'s, Maverick reported, are boiling mad over the way Chiang has insisted on retaining 20,000 armed Japanese to help put down rival Chinese factions.

When Maverick landed at the Peiping airport, he told Truman that he found 1,000 marines on one side of the field and 600 armed Japanese on the other. The American boys, many of whose buddies died fighting the Japs, were outraged over the fact that they had to cooperate with their enemies—all for the sake of Chiang Kai-Shek. Maverick went so far as to warn that there might be instances of Chinese killing American troops because of our now being on the same side as the Japs.

Maverick also reported to Truman that American businessmen were suffering economic set backs in China despite our help to the Chinese government. He said that while the Chinese kept American businessmen at arms' length, the British and Russians were already on their way to resuming large-scale trade.

The Russians have already signed a secret trade agreement with the Chinese which gives them far greater trade opportunities than American business.

At the end of Maverick's gloomy report, the President explained that he was not favoring the Chiang Kai-Shek government, but that he did very much favor peace in China. He said he was aware of the dangers in China, but didn't see what could be done about it until peace was finally worked out.

NOTE—Since then it looks as if General Marshall finally had worked out the long-desired goal of Chinese peace. State department experts are very much hoping the peace will be more than a temporary lull.

$25,000 QUOTA FOR RED CROSS

1946 Fund Campaign For Delta County Will Open March 1

Thaxter Shaw, treasurer of the Delta County chapter of the American Red Cross, announced yesterday that the 1946 county quota has been set at $25,000.

The local budget needs for the work to be done by the county chapter in the coming year has been set at $11,700 and the amount going to the St. Louis office as their share of the total is $13,300 to carry on the work of the American Red Cross.

Plans for the drive which starts March 1, have already been made and it is expected that within the next few days division quotas will be announced, by the chapter president, L. J. Jacobs.

One of the important local services of the Delta County Chapter of the Red Cross is home service—a service which takes care of the problems of men in service and of their families at home. The work is handled entirely by volunteers.

The work of this corps, is expected to increase as the number of veterans return to their homes, particularly as it applies to interlocking veteran benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights. This service will be continued so long as the need exists.

Besides the special wartime services which the Red Cross gave, there is the disaster relief work, which goes on in peace or war. The Red Cross is prepared to give, and gives, aid in time of flood, fire or other disaster.

BACKS CITY WORKERS

Ironwood—Appearing before the city commission yesterday, Ivar Swanson, street department employee and spokesman of the employees' union, defended city workers in that department against criticism and blame for the icy condition of city streets and intersections especially noticeable immediately after every snowstorm.

"We want people to know," he said, "that we are always on hand for an emergency call and are willing to work as much as 60 and 70 hours weekly to eliminate these faults, which have been the subject of much criticism."

Swanson pointed out during the discussion that employees in the street department are now engaged on a 40-hour work week basis.

SEEK NAVAL ARMORY

Hancock—Construction of a naval armory in Hancock at a cost of $150,000 is included in the post-war building program presented in Lansing last week by Maj. Gen. Thomas Colladay, chief of staff of the state's military establishment, to the Ways and Means committee of the House of Representatives preceding the opening of the special session of the legislature.

NEW SAULT INDUSTRY

Sault Ste. Marie—A new Sault industry came into existence here today.

It is the Kirby Body Corporation, with J. T. Kirby, formerly of Wieneke-Soo as manager and with several Sault men interested in the enterprise.

Factory and office of the new corporation will be on West East-erday avenue, in one of the three buildings constructed for military purposes during the "Battle of the Sault."

The building was leased as of today from L. A. Behling, Sault lumber dealer, who purchased the three major buildings from Cadillac-Soo Lumber company, which in turn acquired them from the Conservation department when the buildings were declared surplus by the Army.

ALBERT BYE DIES

Sault Ste. Marie—One of Pickford's older residents, Albert Bye, died yesterday, Monday, Jan. 14, 1946, at 5:00 o'clock at the War Memorial hospital, after suffering a stroke on January 8.

Born at Clinton, Ont., October 14, 1874, he came to Pickford from Canada 67 years ago, when he married Mildred Haines in 1903. She died in 1931.

He was a farmer at Pickford until ten years ago, when he retired. For the past few years he has been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Clive Sawyers, Sault Ste. Marie, P.S.R.

ADOPT FAST TIME

Iron River—Iron county may operate under fast time from May 1 to November 1 by authority of a resolution adopted unanimously yesterday by the board of supervisors.

Copies of the resolution will be mailed to city, village and township boards with a recommendation for favorable action.

City and township supervisors joined in giving fast time in the summer months their support. The change in sentiment from a few years ago when township supervisors opposed the movement is laid to the popularity of war time and the reluctance of most groups to return to standard time.

Packed in cottonseed oil, with tomato or mustard sauce, fresh water carp from Minnesota's lakes is being canned for the first time. The original packs were made for the Army. So satisfactory is the product that it may soon appear generally on the civilian market.

Three-deck, 42-berth sleeping cars, equipped with every convenience, are included in the $1,635, 000,000 improvement program planned by Class I railroads for the first three post-war years.

Automobile manufacturers turned out 2,600,000 trucks for the Army from 1939 to the end of the war.

South Sees Long Battle For Fair Freight Rates

By HENRY LESENE

Atlanta, (AP)—The south, not long ago flushed with victory at the prospect of freight rate equality with the north and east, is now reconciled to resumption of a long fight.

This fight has been going on for nearly a half century. Now it is obviously headed for a climax, but even that may be a matter of years.

Last spring the Interstate Commerce Commission, long the target of southern wrath on the subject, finally issued its long-awaited order in the controversy.

Pending preparation of permanent class rates, it ordered a 10 per cent cut in the south and west and a 10 per cent increase in the east in class rates.

Delays were granted on the pleas of the carriers that time was needed to prepare schedules. Admittedly, it was a task which would require much work.

Finally, though, the order was to go into effect on Jan. 1. But before then a group of northern states obtained an injunction from a three-judge district court in New York, staying it.

The court said the order would subject industries, shippers and others to great injury, for which they would have no redress in event the order should finally be held invalid.

Presumably this matter will go to the Supreme court. But the basic issue is already before that body in a suit from Georgia in which Gov. Ellis Arnall bypassed the lower courts, and took direct to the Supreme court the suit charging railroads with a monopolistic conspiracy against the south.

This was before the I. C. C. order last May 19. At the time, Arnall termed the order a face-saving device.

The Supreme court, by deciding it held jurisdiction in the Georgia suit—an issue strenuously opposed by L. C. C.—held, in effect, that a state can go over the head of the government and be heard in such a matter.

Recently the Supreme court appointed a special master to take testimony in the Georgia case. It is well known that so complicated a case will take years to decide—just how many, no one can say.

BLACK MARKET WILD IN ITALY

Every Foreign Ship Is Greeted By Many "Fishermen"

By FRANK BRUTTO (AP Newsfeatures)

Naples—Where a foreign ship drops anchor in this once beautiful port—whether half a mile or a mile from shore—that's where Italy's black market begins.

With cries of "Johnnie, bizniz," the ragged, swearing, smiling and imprecating "fishermen" of Naples paddle out from the war-littered shore, shaking fistfuls of lire towards crews and passengers of any ships that drop anchor while waiting for one of the few berths that is not encumbered with a rusting, shattered hulk of a once-Axis ship.

First cries are always for "cigarets," then for "shooz, cloze," something . . . Johnnie you speak."

Only minutes after the Liberty ship that was carrying 8,000 tons of wheat for the hungry people of Italy let down its anchor the black marketeers paddled out of an early morning fog and to the side of the ship. Soon a score of them—some barefoot—had clambered aboard.

Fire Hoses for Defense They darted through the ship, bickering, offering ten to fifteen dollars in lire for sixty-cent cartons of tax-free cigarettes. Hag-gling became so intense that they were finally driven off ship with fire hoses. They took it stoically, paddling to just out of reach of the nozzles and scurrying away momentarily when a police boat churned onto the scene. Then, slowly, they edged back.

The business is well organized and has a code of its own. When two "non buono" boys tried to go into effect on Jan. 1. But before then a group of northern states obtained an injunction from a three-judge district court in New York, staying it.

The court said the order would subject industries, shippers and others to great injury, for which they would have no redress in event the order should finally be held invalid.

has a load it quickly pushes out in a second line boat that relays it to shore. Second and third line boats do this part of the job and also watch for the police launch so that by the time it arrives none of the "fishermen"—they carry a few minnows for alibi—are in the immediate vicinity of the ship. If they tarry it is because they have got rid of the goods to another boat.

After the police departure the boats swarm back and business begins in earnest. Cigarettes, shoes, clothes, food, soap and other items are sold.

Officers as well as crewmen who were looking forward to shore leave after an 18-day crossing ransacked their quarters for stuff. Ropes were tossed aboard, pails hauled up with lire and returned with goods. One of the best deals was made by a seaman who sold two cartons of cigarettes for 3,500 lire, then turned around and bought a suit from another seaman that would bring 40,000 lire or $400 ashore.

An hour's work exhausted the lire but not the energy of the black marketeers. As they padded away they shouted over and

Magnetic Stainless Steel Is Announced

Pittsburgh—Born in wartime and kept a military secret until today a new magnetic stainless steel is announced by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation. It combines for the first time, J. L. Perry, president of the corporation, states, the high strength and resistance to corrosion of standard 18-8 stainless steels with hardenability obtained through heat treatment.

Because it has these three vital industrial properties, Stainless W, as the new steel is called, will find wide application in wrought and cast forms in the machinery field and will also be available in strip, sheet, wire and tube forms. It suffers no warping or dimensional changes during hardening operations, is readily fabricated, is machinable, and can be welded.

The new steel contains carbon, manganese, phosphorus, sulfur, silicon, nickel, chromium, titanium aluminum and iron. The titanium may be said to be the most important element because it serves the dual purpose of being the primary precipitation hardening element and a strong ferrite former. The amount used ranges from 0.4 per cent to 1.0 per cent. The proportion of chromium and nickel is 1 per cent less for each than in the standard 18-8 per cent stainless steel.

Casein extracted from milk is the basis of a bouillon which has a rich, beefy flavor but no beef in its content.

APPROVE SHORT BEAVER SEASON

Trapping Period Cut To 10 Days; Will Open April 1 In U. P.

A shortened beaver-trapping season in fewer Michigan counties, reduced legal take of pelts, and tightened regulations to curb post-season trapping will provide increased protection for the animals.

The conservation commission, approving a 10-day trapping season next spring, five days less than in 1945, recognized the inroads made in the state's beaver population by the record take of 15,383 pelts last year.

Trappers may take six pelts only, of which one may be other, or two less than the maximum of eight pelts, including two other, which was the legal limit last year.

Trappers must present pelts at conservation offices for inspection and following the close of the season, a shortened period which is expected to check illegal post-season trapping. Pelts may be sealed while the season is in progress.

Trapping season will be March 27 to April 5 inclusive in 11 southern peninsula counties; will be April 1 to 10 inclusive in 14 counties or portions of counties north of the Straits.

Trapping will be legal in Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Alpena, Alcona, Montmorency, Oscoda, Crawford, Iosco, Roscommon, Missaukee, and Gladwin counties below the Straits; in Gogebic, Houghton, Keweenaw, Baraga, Iron, Dickinson, Delta, Alger, Schoolcraft, Luce, Chippewa, and Mackinac, on the east side of Ontonagon and in the north portion of Menominee county in the northern peninsula. Certain special areas in many of the counties are closed to trapping also, as are refuges, wildlife sanctuaries, and state parks.

The commission steered a middle course in approving the tightened regulations, acting on recommendations of conservation department game men who have been gathering information and sounding out opinion since last August. Trappers and sportsmen's organizations, often expressing opposing viewpoints in the past concerning the beaver's place in the state's economy, in recent months have disagreed among themselves concerning regulatory measures.

Marquette county will be closed to trapping next spring; it was open last year. Alger county, closed last year, will be opened to trapping this year, as will Cheboygan county below the Straits. There will be no trapping for beaver or other below the Muskegon-Bay City line.

Colorado Oil Field May Develop Into Nation's Largest Producer

MARIANNE FACHNER
NEA Staff Correspondent
Rangely, Colo.—(NEA)—Oil-fever hit this back-in-the-hills cow-country of northwestern Colorado and the thermometer has gone sky-high.

Millions of dollars are being sunk in oil-well construction, and 3000 tons of equipment a month are being trucked in over mountain roads.

This newest oil-strike is in the bonanza Rangely basin. The borders of the field are still undefined and no dry wells have been struck. Oilmen feel it may be the largest producing field in the country.

Twenty-four wells are now in operation and 40 more are underway. If transportation difficulties ease up, there should be 800 wells within two years. Wells cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 each.

Rancher Found Oil
The 10-inch pipeline of the Utah Refining Company, planned as a war measure a year ago and recently completed at a cost of $1,250,000 is responsible for the sudden and rapid development of the field. A second pipeline has recently been authorized.

Topographically Rangely basin presents the perfect picture of what a rich oilfield should look like, but it was a rancher, not a geologist, who first discovered its hidden wealth.

In 1902, J. W. Rector, a rancher in the vicinity, found oil on the surface of a river that ran through his property. Shallow well drilling went on spasmodically over a period of years and in 1931 the California Company put down a deep test-well to 6300 feet.

Results were satisfactory, but tank-truck shipments could amount at best to only 1500 barrels a day, a figure that did not warrant working the field to the full. Large scale construction began when plans for the pipeline were made definite.

Oilmen are excited about Rangely because they still don't know how large the field is. The present producing area takes in about 20 square miles, which means that all wells brought in within that area will be active.

Even if the field does not expand, the production from a potential 800 wells, producing 250 barrels a day each, will bring in a yearly income of over 75 million dollars.

DANISH FOOD EXPORTS SLOW

Lack Of Transportation Closes Slaughter Houses

BY BIRGER FARUP
Copenhagen—(AP)—Since V-E Day, when the Nazi yoke on Danish agriculture was lifted, this small country, generally known as "the land of Europe," has been pouring food-stuffs worth 600 million kroner ($125,000,000) into the hungry nations of liberated Europe.

Danish agricultural exports up to Jan. 1, included 65,000 tons of butter, 35,000 tons of bacon and 8,000 tons of eggs. Some 22,000 cattle and 105,000 head of other livestock were shipped to several countries and to British troops in Northern Germany and Norway.

Denmark has offered to send beef to UNRRA and to several countries. If these offers are accepted, Denmark will export some 160,000 head of livestock and 10,000 calves.

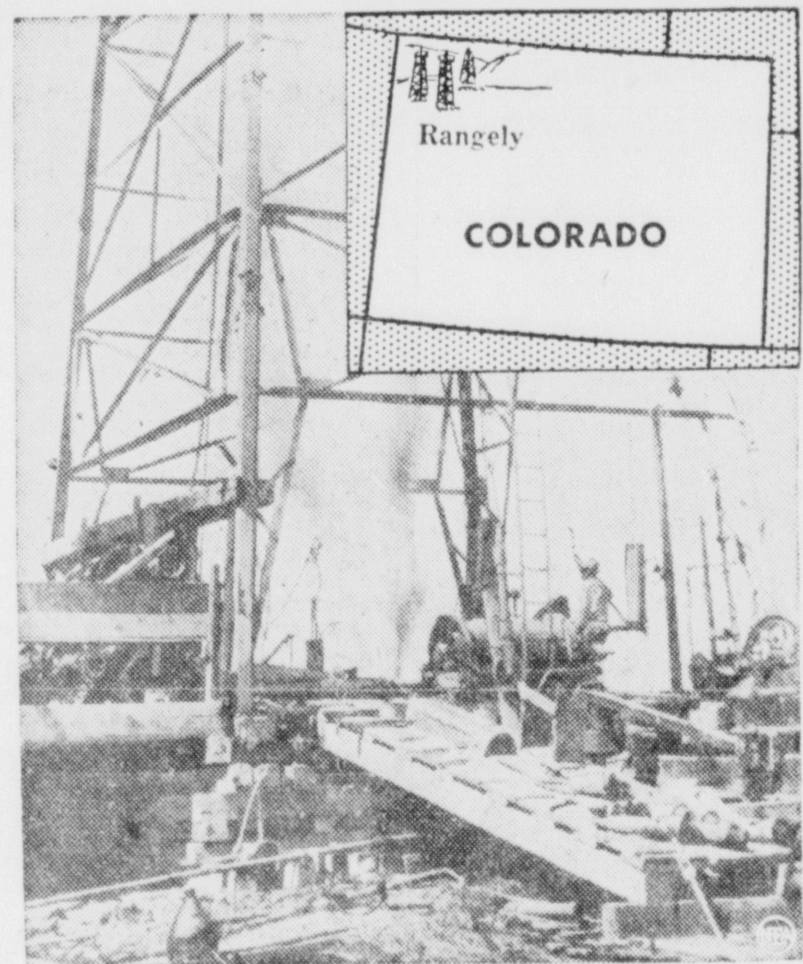

In exchange for coal from the Ruhr, Denmark has agreed to deliver 35,000 head of livestock to Germany. Transport difficulties present a problem, but Denmark recently succeeded in obtaining more railroad cars and the scheduled quantities are being loaded.

Because of inadequate transport Danish slaughter houses for months have been forced to close their doors to farmers offering livestock for export, causing a glut of beef on provincial markets, though it has been difficult to satisfy Copenhagen's requirements in food.

As was the case before the war, England still is the main receiver of Danish agricultural products, taking over 50 per cent of the total exports, followed by Norway, Sweden, Finland, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Switzerland.

Although England is the largest customer, much of the Danish produce shipped there is forwarded to other hungry nations.

The U. S. Army in Europe was Denmark's No. 2 customer until mid-October when American troop transports brought supplies on return trips from the United States.

Oilmen are developing new wells in a 20-square-mile area around Rangely, in northwest part of Colorado.

New Card Games Grow Popular By Promotion

BY BURTON BENJAMIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
New York, (NEA)—Crank up the helicopter, Hugo, and bring along those plastic playing cards. We're going to the Dooleys to play piff-paff.

If that sounds unduly futuristic, you can take the word of the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers, which represents the five major playing card companies, that piff-paff is the gin rummy of the 1950's.

New card games don't spread entirely in epidemic fashion. They are promoted. A good pitch can make a national fad out of an obscure game. After all, five years ago most people thought gin rummy was a barfly who was mixing his drinks.

Wilson Lloyd, who handles the playing card account for an advertising agency, is quite conservative about gin's success:

"Piff-paff could do it," he declares, "but we cannot make a definite prediction at this time. It is a type of rummy to which the card experts are taking a fancy. Another possibility is check pinocchio, which is a combination of pinocchio and bridge. It would be a good game for us because a lot of people don't own pinocchio decks."

GI Card Games
"Of course, the GIs will bring home a lot of new games. Give them a deck of cards and the usual military boredom and they begin creating. In the last war they brought back red dog. This time it may be Chicago piano."

The phenomenal rise in popularity of gin rummy, which ranks fifth in public familiarity (poker, contract bridge, rummy and pinocchio precede it in that order) and fourth in games most frequently played (solitaire, pinocchio and contract ahead), has an unusual publicity angle. It wasn't Presided by a military junta, Haiti resigned in Port-au-Prince in favor of six-man military cabinet which stated it would rule until free elections could be held and an "entirely democratic government" was established. Lescot, who had ruled Haiti since 1941, faces exile.

among the first 10 games in 1940. In 1941, handout pictures began to pour out of Hollywood showing the characters playing cards with their booze. This was strictly a production with the heroes and dolls, who have cultivated boredom to an art, sitting in bored-looking saloons wearing dark glasses and playing a game called gin rummy. The dark glasses were about as necessary as a C picture.

These expensive pubs were so dark that a miner's hat would have been more appropriate. The Association, the agency and Mr. Lloyd were not displeased at this turn of events for a new game sells cards. Their promotion began with pictures of the theatrical, society and sports crowd winning. Ethel Merman was so photographed back stage. Members of the cast of "One Touch of Venus" joined the party. A group of sports writers were shown playing the game en route by train to a big event. These pictures were given national distribution.

Scorecards were printed. Experts formulated a book of rules. High-class gin mills like the Stork Club and El Morocco opened gin rummy rooms. Gin swept the country.

Once a game gets a start the Association gives it the works. Family pictures are preferred. Although 83 per cent of the civilian population played cards in 1940, there is still opposition to it from some church groups. The North and Middle Atlantic areas lead in card playing. Chief opposition lies in the South. Principal objections: Sinful, gambling, bad habit.

Tastes Have Changed
The tastes of the nation have varied since 1900. Whist and euchre were most popular at the turn of the century. Auction bridge was preferred until the middle 1920s when contract became the vogue.

The Association believes gin may be reaching its peak. Some of the so-called smart set are beginning to tire of it and the field may be open for a new game. Don't look for resurgence in such family favorites as old maid or pig, however.

Honeycombed Cloth And Thin Metal Is Light But Strong

Baltimore—A new feather-weight construction material of enormous strength is announced here by the Glenn L. Martin Company and also by New York by the U. S. Plywood Corporation of that city. It is predicted by these two companies that the new material will revolutionize construction techniques in the whole field of transportation.

It is made of a newly-developed "honeycomb" of cloth or paper sandwiched between and firmly bonded to thin sheets of aluminum, stainless steel, wood veneer or plastic. It is claimed that the new sheets are far stronger than anything at the same weight now being manufactured. A practical method of bonding the metal or veneer sheets to the honeycomb makes the new product possible.

TREES TREATED BY INJECTIONS

"Shots" To Nourish Orchards

BY RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer
Berkeley, Calif.—Like human beings who receive "shots" of calcium or iron, trees now can be given injections to speed the diagnosis and treatment of their nutritional deficiencies.

Microscopic amounts of elements such as zinc, copper, boron, manganese and iron are shot directly into the sapwood, which is the tree's equivalent of veins and arteries, with a tree gun developed by Dr. J. P. Bennett, professor of plant pathology of the University of California.

Vaguely resembling a target pistol, the gun consists mainly of a brass tube for a barrel and a plunger which forces the micro-elements out through the muzzle end. A hole is bored in the tree trunk or in a limb, the elements are shot in and the hole is sealed with a hardwood plug.

The results, if any, are apparent in a few months, or even in weeks, because the injection acts much more quickly than if the elements were applied in the natural way, through the soil, or by spraying the leaves. The effects of soil treatment or spraying often are not apparent until a season passes, and sometimes are delayed a year or more.

With the gun the plant expert also can do some sharpshooting. Often trees will not flourish if just one micro-element has been depleted from the soil. To determine the single deficient substance, the expert can inject copper into one limb of a tree, zinc into another limb of the same tree, boron into another, and so on.

Apple, pear, peach and apple orchards have been made healthy and even eucalyptus and acacia trees and rose bushes have been treated successfully with a little iron. Pear trees have been made more productive with a few hand-fuls of copper salts. Olive trees which lived but never bore fruit were made to flourish with a little boron.

Something New Is Found In Tobacco

Washington—Something new really has been added to smoking tobacco—and smokers who have tried it have unanimously expressed a preference for it, even without ritual of a blindfold test. For this simple addition of something that makes tobacco taste better when smoked, three chemists, Dr. C. F. Woodward, Dr. Albert Eisner and P. G. Haines, at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's regional laboratory at Philadelphia, have just received U. S. patent 2,392,514.

Actually the "something new" has been in tobacco smoke all along, though it has never been found in tobacco itself. It is an alkaloid known as myosmine, which is said to be responsible for the pleasant aroma of cigar smoke, and which can now be produced synthetically.

The three chemists added microscopic quantities of myosmine to cigarettes, cigars and pipe tobacco, and then invited smokers to compare the treated smoke with similar ones that had no added myosmine. Without exception, the smokers liked the treated tobacco better.

Rights for government use of this discovery have been assigned, royalty-free, to the Secretary of Agriculture.

2 Quakes Reported On Ocean Bottom

Washington—The 2 first earthquakes of 1946 both occurred at the bottom of the Pacific in tropical latitudes but they were half a world apart. As traced by seismologists of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey here, one had its epicenter not far off the coast of Guatemala, and was probably felt across that country; the other, a very strong shock, centered on the ocean bottom east of the New Hebrides islands.

The first earthquake began at 8:14.8 p. m. EST, on Friday, Jan. 4, and centered near latitude 14 1/2 degrees north, longitude 91 1/2 degrees west. The second occurred at 2:57.4 p. m. EST, on Saturday, Jan. 5, and had its epicenter near latitude 15 1/2 degrees south, longitude 171 1/2 degrees east.

Seismograph stations reporting through Science Service were the Dominion Observatory, Wellington, N. Z.; Spring Hill College near Mobile, Ala., and the observatories of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey at Tucson, Ariz., San Juan, P. R., and College, Alaska.

FIND OUT WHAT TAXPAYERS ASK

Municipal Officials Are Urged To Employ Opinion Poll

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Municipal officials are urged by John A. Perkins, assistant professor of political science at the University of Michigan, to find out just what services taxpayers expect of their community and to finance any new demands from local funds.

Writing in the Michigan Municipal Review, Prof. Perkins suggests that new services can be financed out of savings achieved by performing existing functions more efficiently. He warns against reliance on state and federal funds unless cities are willing to surrender more of their local democracy.

Prof. Perkins advocates Gallup-type polls to determine local opinion on current issues affecting municipal governments. This would match the voice of pressure groups and special interests against the voice of all the people.

Taxpayers also should be made to realize that they probably receive greater value in return for each dollar of taxes they pay to their city governments than is received for any other expenditure they make, Prof. Perkins suggests. Improvement in municipal public relations to make the citizen aware of the many functions the city performs for him is advocated. There is no room for secrecy in municipal government, Prof. Perkins declares, in urging that city officials give the newspapers all the news about municipal activities.

Although he does not expect any expansion in municipal services comparable to that which took place after the First World War, Prof. Perkins anticipates cities may have to offer additional facilities to counteract the present tendency for people to move just outside city limits. Extension of certain services to these out-lying areas is cited as a possible need within a short time.

There are 5,000,000 books and pamphlets in the Library of Congress.

Black Robes At The Sault

With Quebec again French, Jesuit fathers replaced the Recollets in Huronia.

In 1640 their chief mission was Ste. Marie; for it our Sault is named.

SEE INCREASE IN SUGAR BEETS

Government Program
Expected To Raise
Production

Washington—(AP)—Agriculture Department officials expressed confidence today that the government's sugar production program for 1946 will encourage a greater output of beet sugar in this country.

They said recent reports on planting intentions of Midwestern and Western growers indicate that the government's national goal of 1,025,000 acres of sugar beets will be reached. Planting for the 1945 crop were only 779,000.

Officials said they believe a "more favorable" price support program and prospects for an improved farm labor supply will encourage beet growers to "go all out" in the production of the crop.

The 1946 support program guarantees growers a national average return of not less than $13.50 a ton of beets of the average quality of recent years. This compares with $12.50 for the 1945 crop.

This guaranteed return includes government subsidy payments—those authorized by the sugar act of 1936 and special price support payments—and prices which processors of sugar beets pay for the crop. Price that processors pay are limited by ceilings on sugar.

Payments under the sugar act average $2.50 a ton. The additional price support payments will average about $4 a ton under present ceiling prices of sugar.

Jan. 31 Is Last Day To Reenlist At Present Grade

Final deadline for members of the Enlisted Reserve Corps on an inactive status to reenlist in the Regular Army if they desire to retain their present grade will be January 31, 1946, according to an announcement made today by Captain John E. McCarthy, commanding officer of the Escanaba Army Recruiting Office.

"After February 1, 1946," said Captain McCarthy, "members of the ERC on an inactive status will not be enlisted in the Regular Army in any grade other than that of private, except as may be authorized by the War Department at a future date."

Under present procedure, as outlined by Captain McCarthy, it is no longer necessary for a reservist to request call to active duty for the purpose of discharge and reenlistment unless he desires to do so. He can now enlist at any Army Recruiting Office, and his discharge from a reserve status will be accomplished for him. This applies to all enlisted reservists regardless of the date they were discharged from the Army, and regardless of the date they were enlisted in the ERC.

"Present regulations with regard to reenlistment furloughs and the enlistment allowance also remain in effect," said Captain McCarthy. "No reservists who have been relieved from an active status for more than twenty days will be authorized a reenlistment furlough upon enlistment in the Regular Army, and no reservist who has been separated from active status for more than ninety days will be authorized an enlistment allowance upon enlistment in the Regular Army."

Reservists can secure further information concerning reenlistment from the Escanaba Army Recruiting Office at the Post Office Building, open from noon Friday to noon Saturday of each week.

SOO MAN KILLS SELF
Sault Ste. Marie—Death of Arthur Cody, 30, Sault mechanic who died of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head after attempting to shoot his wife at a Sault dance hall at 12:30 a. m. Sunday, was determined by Chippewa county officials to be a suicide.

According to police, who investigated, Cody came into the dance hall, Gould's pavilion in Algonquin, shortly before 12:30 a. m. and brandishing a U. S. government automatic pistol, aimed at his estranged wife, Earla, 20, and pulled the trigger three times. Otis Gordon, of the Sault, standing nearby, told police he grabbed the man's arm, but Cody broke away and ran outside. Mrs. Cody, meanwhile, had fainted. Police had been called and when a radio car approached the dance hall, they found Cody fallen and dying in front of a parked automobile, shot through the head. He died a few seconds later, police said.

RURAL PHONES WILL EXPAND

Bell Company Presents
Its Proposal To Commission

Lansing, Mich.—The Michigan Bell Telephone Company today laid before the Michigan Public Service Commission a proposal that would enable an additional 10 per cent of the farm families in its territory to obtain telephone service with no construction charges. Today, 75 per cent of all farms may have service without special construction charges. The new plan would increase that percentage to 85 per cent.

A petition was filed with the commission which, if approved, would increase from 3/10 to 1/2 mile the amount of construction to be furnished free of charge by the company.

The plan results from a study of the rural communications problem by the Michigan Rural Communications Committee. The group is headed by Clark L. Brody, Executive Secretary of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, Lansing.

Other members are Stanley M. Powell and E. E. Ungren, both of the Farm Bureau; Milton Grinnell, editor of the "Michigan Farmer"; Robert J. Baldwin, Director of Extension, and Professor D. E. Wiont, of the agricultural engineering department, both of Michigan State College; and W. G. Armstrong, master of the State Grange and member of the State Board of Agriculture.

Under the proposed plan, Theodore H. Dawson, head of the company's rural program, said that no construction charge would be made for rural installations if the number of applicants per extension averages one per half-mile.

This is a modification of a liberalized rural construction plan adopted by Michigan Bell in 1940 which set up an installment plan whereby construction charges could be paid monthly over a five-year period.

Under this earlier plan, free line extensions were made only if there was an average of one customer per 3/10 mile.

Although the rate per tenth mile in excess of the initial allowance would remain at $27, the cost could be prorated among those served by the extension and charged for at a rate of 45 cents a month per 1/10 mile.

LaFramboise To Enter Race For Congressman

Joseph A. LaFramboise of Gladstone, former state senator from the thirtieth senatorial district, yesterday announced his candidacy for congressman on the Democratic ticket in the July primary election.

Two years ago, Mr. LaFramboise sought the Republican nomination for congressman, but was defeated by the incumbent, Rep. Fred Bradley of Rogers City.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. LaFramboise states that he favors revision of the G. I. Bill to give veterans a decent living wage while they are preparing for new professions or skilled work.

"I am in favor of the best possible plan of pensions for our older citizens, and I believe the evils of the present social security laws should be corrected to include county and city municipal employees," Mr. LaFramboise stated.

"I have always supported state legislation for the benefit of the public schools and believing the present state aid isn't adequate I favor the federal government supplementing state aid and will promote federal aid to the states without federal control."

"I favor the revision of the Railroad Retirement Act."

"I will promote legislation to aid the farmer or will vote against any legislation which will regulate farm prices."

"I have lived in the Upper Peninsula since boyhood. I have seen the peak of the lumber industry here. For the past few years I have keenly observed our reforestation program. I am convinced that we must carry out a reforestation program that will

CEMENT BLOCK FIRM TO BUILD

Iron Mountain Concern
To Have Plant At Champion

Iron Mountain—Construction of the new cement-block and cement-mix manufacturing plant of the recently-organized Hoyle Brothers, Inc., Iron Mountain, is under way on a site just north of the Champion, Inc., sand and gravel plant, on US-2 north of the city, and the new enterprise, to be the most modern of any plant of its kind in the northern Wisconsin - upper Michigan region, will be operating early in March, Albert and Robert son, flight surgeon in the U. S. Navy, served four and one half years; Mae and Carol LaFramboise, both at home.

Hoyle, brothers announced here this morning.

Organization of the company, capitalized at $100,000 was completed over the week-end. Officers are R. C. Hoyle, manager and president; A. C. Hoyle, vice-president; F. A. Flodin, secretary, and W. B. Thompson, treasurer. Negotiations leading to organization of the new company were begun several months ago, and announcement was withheld pending the completion of legal and other details.

Designed to meet, in part at least, a critical shortage of building material in this area, and to speed the construction of dwellings, business buildings and other urgently-needed facilities, the new plant will be mechanically operated throughout, and will embody the newest in equipment and accessories. Some equipment is already on hand and more is on order.

In the 16th century, English was considered too modern a language for dignified prose literature. There was particular opposition to putting the Bible into English.

FOUNDED "BIRD CITY"

Bird-loving E. A. McIlhenny, Avery Island, La., in 1892 placed eight young snowy egrets inside a large 50-foot-square cage containing trees and water, and fed them until the following autumn, when the cage was removed. The birds disappeared, only to return the following spring to nest. From two nests that season, the colony grew into a large wildlife refuge known today as "Bird City."

RECIPE EPITAPH

World's most curious epitaph was a collection of recipes. A chef of the French king Louis Philippe provided recipes, which were affixed on his tombstone instead of an epitaph. Placed in a metal frame, the recipes were changed daily.

The United States consumes each year about 7,000,000 tons of sugar.

Medieval Crusaders Inspired
New Glamorous Winter HoodsBY EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

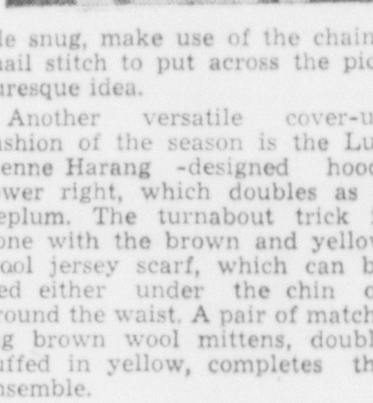

New York—Hoods which flatly frame the face and cover all of the hair except a possible widow's peak are fashion's answer to winter's howls.

You can thank the medieval crusaders for the idea for these knightly hoods and collars which shut out cold and add a picturesque note to ensembles. Accessories with skirts, muff-bags, gloves or wristlets, the hood and its mate are usually studded with nailheads, splashed by medieval embroidery, or knitted in chainmail stitches which create the illusion of armored mesh.

Accessories Match
Examples of ensembles created for daytime and evening wear are shown in two Arpad designs above. For evening glamor, the black velvet hood, right, with flange collar embroidered in stained glass colors, is teamed with a matching bag, which picks up the medieval motif.

Woodknit hood and wristlet, center, with exaggerated revers and four tie-bows to keep the ensemble snug, make use of the chainmail stitch to put across the picturesque idea.

Another versatile cover-up fashion of the season is the Lucienne Harang—designed hood, lower right, which doubles as a peplum. The turnabout trick is done with the brown and yellow wool jersey scarf, which can be tied either under the chin or around the waist. A pair of matching brown wool mittens, double cuffed in yellow, completes the ensemble.

FIFTY YEARSMr. and Mrs. C. W. Bretz
Honored By Friends
On Anniversary

Attainment of fifty years of married life was appropriately observed by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bretz, 552 Manistique avenue, at their home Saturday afternoon and evening with scores of friends calling to congratulate and to wish them well.

Flowers and a special decorative scheme made the home gay and in the dining room where lunch was served the guests, a huge gold and white wedding cake with a golden candelabra, had the place of honor. Mrs. D. C. Perry, of Weyerhaeuser, Wis., and Mrs. Alex Robertson of Manistique did the serving.

The occasion was made all the more happy by the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Bretz have three children, Mrs. Paul S. Boomer, of St. Marys, Ohio; Miss Marjorie Bretz and Mrs. Carl Anderson, of Manistique; and their two grandchildren, were present with them.

On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bretz were again honored guests at a reception in the parlors of the Methodist church given by the WSCS organization of the church, of which Mrs. Bretz is a member.

Here again a color scheme of white and gold was carried out and a wedding cake graced the center table. A special program was given at this time and the couple were presented with a gift. Rev. Meldon Crawford made the presentation talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Bretz were married at Saranac on January 12, 1896 and have been residents of Manistique since 1920. For many years Mr. Bretz was connected with the city water department, retiring about a year ago. During their residence here they have been active members of the First Methodist church. Both are in their seventy-first year and are in the best of health.

Cooks Hens
Have Much To Cackle Over

There seems to be an intense rivalry among the poultry sisterhood in the Cooks vicinity. Eggs of phenomenal size are becoming commonplace. Recently John Erickson, of that community, brought an egg to the Press office for verified measurement and weight. It measured 7 1/4 inches in circumference the long way and 6 1/2 inches the smaller way. Then this week comes Herbert Gray, his neighbor, with an egg that measured 7 1/2 x 8 1/2 inches, and weighed five ounces. The egg was produced by a white rock spring pullet.

DID SOME TRAVELING—Meeting of relatives, chums and school mates in out of the way places have been common enough during the war, but few cases are recorded that show more effort and miles traveled than that of Walter W. Rischhoff when he sought to spend a day with his brother.

Walter, who was in the signal corps with the Fifth Air Force, stationed at Clark Field, Luzon, learned that the USS Clayborne, on which his brother was assigned, had put in port at Manila. He flew to Manila only to learn, when he got there that the ship had just left. He flew to Clark Field and hitch hiked to San Fernando arriving there shortly after the ship had docked. The two spent three days together.

Walter recently arrived in this country after many months of service in the South Pacific. Walter and Emory are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Emory C. Rischhoff of this city.

CO COMPLAINTS
STILL RE-ECHOInmates Of Germfask
Camp Now In California

Faint echoes of a war time problem which, about a year ago, caused considerable annoyance in this area, have recently been heard. Former inmates of the conscientious objectors' camp at Germfask are still vocal and are sending out their appeals to whoever will listen to them.

These men who refused to take up arms or assist this country in its war time endeavors are now at an objectors' camp in Redding, Calif., where they were sent when the camp at Germfask was abandoned. Strangely enough, their recent appeals for "justice" have been sent to the very officers with whom they refused to cooperate.

The Germfask camp received considerable notoriety about a year ago following a series of articles appearing in the Press exposing acts of sabotage bordering dangerously close to mutiny on the part of the radical element among the objectors. This exposure was followed by specially featured articles in magazines of national circulation reflecting on the national system which apparently immunized objectors from punishment for their defiance of regulations.

The Germfask camp, which was formerly a CCC camp, is now abandoned.

Local Man's War
Souvenir Is A
Chinese Puppy

Among the many souvenirs brought from foreign lands since the war, perhaps the most interesting locally is a chow dog brought here by Earl Davenport, son of Mrs. Walter Davenport, 527 Garden avenue.

Earl, who recently received his honorable discharge from the navy after serving about three years overseas, was in Tsing Tao, China, about three months ago. Looking down from the deck of his ship on a Chinese junk anchored along side of it, he spied the pup, which was just about able to walk. Making motions that he wished to purchase the dog, he lowered a bucket containing Chinese money equivalent to about $1.25. The Chinaman took the money and put the dog in the bucket and then went through a pantomime showing how the animal should be prepared for cooking. (Puppy dog stew is a great delicacy among Chinese coolies).

The animal eventually arrived in this country and at Seattle, Wash., received the required government inspection and immunization shots.

Boys aboard ship gave the dog the rather formal name of Hung Chow, but Earl's little niece, Judy Davenport, calls it Snuffy, which the pup seems to prefer.

Hunting And Fishing

By Sid Gordon

SOUTH DAKOTA FOLKS AND PHEASANTS
Some time ago I wrote two articles headed "The South Dakota Pheasant Racket" and "Thinning the Customers in South Dakota." They were based upon the comments of several reliable and responsible sportsmen in Superior, Oshkosh, Appleton and readers of other daily papers which print my column.

The Daily Argus-Leader is printed at Sioux Falls, South Dakota and has the "largest daily circulation in the Dakotas." They read my stories and I feel that, in all fairness, their editorial should be published. Lack of space compels me to leave out those portions in which they reprinted the complaints. Here is their answer:

OTHERS DON'T ALWAYS SEE US AS WE ARE
"Sid W. Gordon, recently discussed pheasant hunting in South Dakota. The general nature of his comment may be deduced from the fact that he entitled his article 'Thinning the Customers in South Dakota.' He himself, however, wasn't here and he based his comments upon what he had heard. But what he heard was quite extraordinary—and, we are sure, quite surprising to most South Dakotans.

"The Argus-Leader knows South Dakota and South Dakotans well. And it can assure Columnist Gordon that what he has learned by way of hearsay is just so much tommyrot. South Dakota and South Dakotans don't treat their visitors in such fashion. In truth, the prevailing attitude is one of genuine hospitality and fair treatment."

"We readily grant, however, that there may be isolated instances of abuse, even as there are in Wisconsin's splendid fishing areas." The point we seek to emphasize is that the experiences recited in the Wisconsin newspaper are extreme exceptions to the rule.

"Here is a story on the other side that he might print just to balance the ledger. The story, as told by the Miller Gazette, is that four hunters found themselves in Miller without a place to sleep. About every available room was taken and the case seemed hopeless.

"Then someone thought about an elderly couple residing in a house on the edge of town and asked if, in a spirit of community service and courtesy, it would be possible to accommodate the hunters in their home. They said yes."

"The hunters remained there a week and were treated in a royal fashion, not only sleeping but taking many of their meals at the house. When they were ready to leave, they asked for their bill and were surprised to be told that there was no bill. The elderly couple wouldn't think of sharing the privileges of their home. They flatly and emphatically refused to accept a dime.

"The hunters, however, couldn't tolerate that. So the next day the couple found four $100 bills under the pillows of the beds in which the hunters had slept. Such stories, too, could be repeated in great numbers. But they, of course, are the exception just as the incidents on the other side are."

Government Book, "Aleut Language," Started In 1820

Washington—A new book, titled "The Aleut Language," which bridges the gap between English and the language spoken by the native of the Aleutian Islands, has just been published under sponsorship of the Department of the Interior. It contains a grammar and an English-Aleut vocabulary. The familiar Roman alphabet is used, but markings of some of the letters required the casting of a certain amount of special type.

Although newly published, the book is in some respects old. First work leading to its appearance was done between 1820 and 1830 by Ivan Veniaminov, a scholarly Russian priest. The rest of the work was carried out by the late Richard Henry Geoghegan, noted Irish linguist and philologist, and Miss Frederica I. Martin of New York, who inherited Mr. Geoghegan's mass of source material upon his death in 1943, and who edited the final text.

ADULT TEACHING CHIEFS CONFER

Regional Conference For Upper Peninsula Opens In Escanaba Today

Directors of adult education from all parts of the Upper Peninsula will meet in Escanaba today for the first of three regional conferences to be held in the state. Others will be at Ann Arbor and Kalamazoo in February.

The sessions today will be at the Escanaba junior high school, and the chairman will be Robert E. Sharer, chief of the adult education division, Michigan department of public instruction. Local arrangements have been made by John A. Lemmer, Escanaba superintendent of schools.

The main speaker at the conference today will be Dean Cyril Houle of the University of Chicago, an expert in the field of adult education.

Conservation Office Manager Is Named

Kenneth A. Berg, 27, war veteran and former Conservation Department employee, yesterday began work as office manager at the district office of the department in Escanaba. It was announced yesterday by John Anguilm, district supervisor. The position of office manager is being established by the department at the 12 district headquarters in the state.

Berg graduated from Gladstone high school in 1936, and prior to the war was employed by the department with its fish division at Hargetts, and later with the field administration at Eben.

He was discharged Nov. 15 after three and one-half years of service with the armed forces. He was two years with the Air Corps at Jefferson Field, Mo., and the remainder in the Air Transport Command in Australia, New Guinea, Leyte, Luzon and Oahu.

Berg is married and the family resides at 901 Second avenue south.

Upper Peninsula Native Is Bishop

Iron Mountain—Pope Pius XI has created a new diocese in Wisconsin with its seat at Madison and has named as its first bishop the most Rev. William Patrick O'Connor, now bishop of Superior, Wis.

Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cagognani, apostolic delegate in announcing the creation of the Madison bishopric, also made known that the Pope has designated two additional bishops in the United States, one of them Monsignor Thomas L. Noa, a native of Iron Mountain, Mich.

Bishop O'Connor, who was known affectionately as "Father Bill" when he was senior chaplain of the 32nd (Red Arrow) division in World War I, is a native Milwaukeean. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre for bravery in action in France during World War I.

A former dean and professor of philosophy at St. Francis seminary, Milwaukee, Bishop O'Connor was made bishop of Superior in 1942. He formerly was state chaplain of the Wisconsin council of the knights of Columbus and held several American Legion offices. He also formerly was president of the American Philosophical society.

Bishop-designate Noa, now rector of St. Joseph's seminary, Grand Rapids, Mich., was named to be titular bishop of Salona and coadjutor to Bishop Edmund P. Heenan, Sioux City, Iowa. He studied at the North American College in Rome and was ordained there in 1916. He has been attached to the faculty of St. Joseph's seminary since 1917.

WILL TEACH HERE — Allan Mathison, formerly of Gladstone, has been engaged by the Escanaba board of education to serve as commercial teacher in the senior high school. He will begin his new duties Monday, succeeding Clarence Pearson who has been given a new assignment. Mathison, a graduate of the Gladstone high school and Ferris institute, taught a couple years at Manchester, lower Michigan, before joining the Army Air Corps in February, 1942. He served as instructor at Shaw Field, Sumter, S. C., two years and was discharged from Lowry Field, Colo., on Dec. 28, 1945, with the rank of first lieutenant. He is married and has a daughter, Susan.

Movies Added To Recreation Dept. Activity Program

As an added activity to its varied program, the recreation department plans on showing two full-length sound movies a month. These pictures will be shown on Friday afternoons after school.

The first movie, "Young Eagles," will be shown Friday, Jan. 18, at 4 p. m. in the gymnasium at the recreation building. This picture is about the adventures of two Eagle Scouts who become lost in the jungles after the plane in which they are riding is forced down. The picture is of special interest to Scouts. All children are invited. There will be a small admission charge to cover the cost of the film.

Deer Hunters In This County Were 38.5% Successful

Delta county deer hunters were 38.5 per cent successful during the 1945 season, according to a survey conducted by the district office of the Conservation department.

John Anguilm, district supervisor, said that not all of the survey cards mailed out have been returned, and that persons who returned them are asked to mail them back as soon as possible. Cards were mailed to 473 deer hunters in the county, and 306 had been returned to yesterday.

Of the 306 hunters reporting, 118 reported they got their buck, and 188 said they hunted without success. Five reported they shot bear, and 301 failed to get a bear.

Effects Of Meat Packers Strike Not Felt Sharply Yet

Unless the national meat packers strike which began Wednesday continues for several weeks or more, the shortage of meat here will probably be no greater than that meat-eaters have long been accustomed to, as many dealers here are supplied by independent packers not on strike and butcher-farmers in the vicinity.

Local meat supplies this week have been normal and no decided increases in meat sales as a result of the packers strike have been reported.

Some dealers anticipate a sharp shortage next week if the strike continues.

Many dealers report plentiful supplies of cold and canned meats, fish, poultry, eggs and meat substitutes.

In the Green Bay area packers said that farmers and cattle buyers had been notified before the strike not to ship until further orders and that even if the strike were immediately settled there still would be a lag before normal movement of meat from the hoof to the market would be flowing again.

Briefly Told

Apply For License — Applications for marriage licenses have been made at the office of County Clerk J. Theodore Ohlen by Ivan LeBeau of Bark River and Miss Freda B. Dilley of Flint; Henry G. King of Gladstone and Miss Anna Mae Peltier of Escanaba; John M. Goloback and Miss Beverly A. Snyder of Escanaba; James P. Wils and Miss Eunice M. Gillard of Rapid River.

Still Need Fixtures — George McEwen, chairman of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce housing committee, reports that Escanaba people have responded quite satisfactorily to the appeal for soil pipes, plumbing fixtures and other equipment for completing work on new apartments and other dwellings. The demand for these materials still continues, however, and anyone knowing where they can be located is asked to notify the Chamber of Commerce.
